OTTAWA, Sept. 8.—The playing of the carillon in the Peace Tower, the ringing of bells in the churches, and a salute of guns from Parliament Hill, marked the reception here shortly after the noon hour today of the news of the Italian surrender.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King received news and radio correspondents in his office in the historic east block to communicate the news formally to them. He was quiet in his demeanor, but there was unaffected satisfaction in the tones of his voice.

"I am more pleased than I ever have been to receive the press today," he told the newspapermen simply, adding: "Especially more pleased than at any time in this war so far."

He then read to them the terms of General Eisenhower's announcement of the armistice, and followed it by reading the text of his own brief radio announcement. He finally detailed the arrangements that had been made for the playing of the Carillon, the ringing of the church bells, and the firing of the special salute in commemoration of the great event.

DAY OF REJOICING

"Let us have," he commented, "a day of rejoicing. But let it be accompanied by a resolution that from now on every one of us in

Cohen to Rejoin War Labor Board

OTTAWA, Sept. 8.—(CP)—J. L. Cohen of Toronto, Labor representative on the national war labor board, has acceded to a request from three major labor organizations that he resume his activities as a board member, he announced today.

In a letter to Mr. Justice C. P. McTague, board chairman, Mr. Cohen said he was "prepared to resume by participation in all hearings and activities of the board."

Mr. Cohen had not appeared at board hearings since he wrote Mr. McTague Aug. 18 saying he would not sit on controversial cases until the government's labor policy was "clarified." He complained of "severe limitations of unsatisfactory and inadequate legislation and prevailing administrative policy."

Large Allied Ship Moves Reported

LONDON, Sept. 8.—The German Transocean News Service said today that Allied ship movements had been observed north of Sicily and concluded that "further landings" were planned.

The German agency's radio transmission asserted there were two large convoys totalling 200 freighters and transports, strongly escorted by fighter planes.

Large Allied ship movements also were reported to have been observed at North African ports.

The convoys moving north of Sicily were believed to come from Palermo, Transocean said.

CANUCK GAINS DRAW PLAUDITS OF CHURCHILL

OTTAWA, Sept. 8.—(CP)—As hostilities between the United Nations and Italy officially ceased, Prime Minister Churchill of Great Britain congratulated Canada on the advance made by Canadian troops in Italy, it was announced today.

In a message to Prime Minister Mackenzie King Mr. Churchill said:

"My congratulations on the Canadian advance."

LONDON, Sept. 8—British and Canadian fighter squadrons and American medium bombers attacked targets in Northern France and Belgium and also shipping in the channel today, carrying on the current offensive for the seventh day.

British and Canadian heavy bombers were idle last night, however, presumably because of adverse weather.

The specific targets of the high-flying fighters were not immediately announced but American Marauders were stated to have raided German airfields in the Lille area. The bombers were escorted by R.A.F., Dominion and Allied Spitfires.

SAY AMIENS RAIDED

Axis broadcasts said Allied planes raided Amiens about noon, destroying "many houses and one school" in the suburbs. Abbeville also was bombed heavily, the broadcasts reported, and other Allied planes raided the Montdidier area southeast of Amiens.

Authoritative sources said eight German planes were destroyed by R.A.F. fighters this morning, and five British fighters were missing.

BERLIN REPORT

A Berlin broadcast said two British "nuisance raiders" were over Reich territory last night and one of them, a Mosquito bomber, was shot down by anti-aircraft fire at the German-Dutch frontier.

Mosquitos, on intruder operations, hit at railroad targets along with the airfields, the air ministry reported, and naval aircraft sank a German E-boat in the channel without loss.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—(AP) — Marshal Stalin triumphantly announced in a special order of the day today that "the Donets basin is cleared of the Germans."

The announcement, broadcast by the Moscow radio and recorded by the United States federal communications commission, added, "our troops captured a number of cities, including the city of Stalino."

The action came, the Soviet premier continued, "as a result of skilled manoeuvres and a determined offensvie in the last six days."

The implicit report that Stalino again was in Russian hands put the seal on Russian claims that complete reconquest of the mineral-wealthy Donets basin was assured and that the Germans were being swept westward at a growing pace.

32 Albertans Are Named in Casualty List

The total of officially announced Canadian army casualties has reached 1,898 with issuance of Wednesday's list. Defence department officials in Ottawa say this list will be the last compiled from that campaign. There were two Albertans listed as killed and 30 wounded in the list.

It is not known when the department will start issuing casualties suffered in the invasion of the Italian continent.

Alberta men in this casualty list include:

First Axis Victim

Safe and Easy War Boomeranged Into Calamity for Italian Nation

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Staff Writer

A safe, easy war that boomeranged into frightful calamities gnawed like acid into Italian morale, finally toppling that nation as the first Axis victim of the Second Great War.

Preceding it in inglorious finale went Benito Mussolini, the prophet and artisan of modern-day Fascism who sought a 20th century Roman empire.

Italy fell after Allied armies battered in her front door of Sicily and put her cities, including Rome, under devastation from the air.

The Italian rallying cry changed to "Peace!" from the drumthumping days of "Nice, Corsica and Tunis" and proclamations of the Mediterranean as "Mare Nostrum" —"Our Sea."

WAS CONFIDENT THEN

It was a confident Mussolini who launched his "stab-in-the-back" march on France on June 10, 1940 —when speedy an absolute victory seemed so close to the dictators' grasp. For Mussolini, conqueror of Ethiopia and Albania, it seemed almost a bloodless coup.

It was fatal miscalculation. In three years and several months the war has boomeranged to strip him of his African empire, to tear Sicily from Italy, to bring British and Canadian forces to the mainland, to bottle up the Mediterranean, to bring air siege to all Italians and drain the country of manpower and shatter much of her navy.

For Mussolini, leader of the black shirts and would-be imitator of the Roman conquerors, it was the last hand in the game of intrigue and power he started with

Allied Problem

Italians Must Be Protected Against Nazis

By HARRISON SALISBURY
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

LONDON, Sept. 8.—The Italian capitulation has been expected in London since the Eighth Army landed at Calabria five days ago.

It was known that the Italians were in the progress of expediting efforts to get out of the war, and the method whereby this could be accomplished was the only point at issue.

Since it is presumed that the Allies have taken ample precautions to carry out the full meaning of the terms "unconditional surrender," the problems which now arise include the task of Allied protection for the Italians against their former partners, the Germans.

NAZIS ONLY PROBLEM

The term "unconditional surrender" means that Italy must lay down its arms, turn over its capital fleet to the Allies and permit the use by the Allies of any and all military facilities. All resistance ceases immediately.

The present problem facing the Allies now centres around the presence of an unknown number of German troops in the south and central parts of Italy, and the German troops in the north which constitute the major obstacle to Italy's full occupation. It is assumed here that Allied troops now are heading north to establish a firm front in this area.

The terms of the military armistice meanwhile provide for local Italian authorities to maintain order until the Allied military government is able to move in sufficient personnel.

GET FASCIST LEADERS

It is also pointed out here that the terms of the unconditional surrender gives the Allies their first Axis leader—Mussolini—assuming he is still in Italy. His son-in-law, Count Ciano, and all leading fascists who have been unable to make their escape across the frontiers of the capitulated country also will be caught by the Allies—and there is every evidence here that few escapes have been accomplished.

Air Cadet League Officers Elected

CALGARY, Sept. 8.—(CP)—D. Alex. Ross, Calgary, was re-elected chairman of the Alberta provincial committee of the Air Cadet League of Canada at its annual meeting Tuesday. Mr. Ross is also a national director of the league.

Members of the provincial committee elected were: H. R. Carson, a national director, Calgary; J. H. Wildman, Colin D. McKenzie and Dr. H. C. Newlands, all of Edmonton; Maurice L. Brown, Harv y Harrison, W. J. Kraft, James C. Mahaffy, M.L.A., Calgary; Harold G. Long, Lethbridge; E. C. Macdonald, Medicine Hat; and E. W. Willis, Innisfail.

Dr. E. H. Boomer Named Chairman Of Gas Board

Dr. E. H. Boomer, chemistry professor at the University of Alberta, has been named chairman of the Alberta Petroleum and Natural Gas Conservation Board, Hon. N. E. Tanner, minister of lands and mines, announced Wednesday. Dr. Boomer succeeds J. J. Frawley, K.C., who has resigned to return to his post of solicitor in the attorney-general's department.

An order-in-council naming Dr. Boomer as chairman was passed Tuesday. Other members of the conservation board named by the order are G. W. Northfield, Edmonton, and M. D. Kemp, Calgary.

Mr. Northfield, who becomes deputy chairman of the board, has been employed as senior assessor of the income tax branch of the treasury department.

Mr. Kemp, who was engineer of the previous board, will continue in that capacity.

Mr. Tanner said the new board will continue to meet in Calgary, and that Mr. Northfield and Mr. Kemp will be stationed there permanently. Dr. Boomer, who will carry on his work at the university, will go to Calgary for board meetings whenever necessary.

Former Pensions Chairman Buried

CALGARY, Sept. 8.—(CP)—Many prominent Calgarians attended the funeral services held this afternoon in Banff for Brig. Gen. H. F. McDonald, C.M.G., D.S.O., chairman of the Canadian Pensions Commission and chief executive assistant to Air Minister Power, who died at his home in Banff last week.

Major the Rev. Canon W. H. Morgan officiated and burial was in the Banff cemetery.

At the funeral this afternoon, Mayor Andrew Davison, represented the city of Calgary; Air Vice-Marshal G. R. Howsam, M.C., air officer commanding No. 4 training command, Calgary, represented Air Minister Power; Group Captain Douglas Iron, O.B.E., R.A.F. former commanding officer of No. 37 S.F.T.S., recently appointed to the post of senior administrative officer, represented the air council.

British Destroyer Is Reported Sunk

MADRID, Sept. 8. — (AP)—A Spanish news agency dispatch from Algeciras said last night the Spanish freighter Antequera had rescued the entire crew of a British destroyer which burned and sank in the Mediterranean, 25 miles off Gibraltar. The news agency said the mishap occurred this afternoon from an undetermined cause. The crew of 125 was reported landed at Algeciras, which lies near the British fortress.

Defeated Nation Given Armistice

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Sept. 8.—Italy has surrendered unconditionally and ordered its armed forces to resist the Nazis if they should try to interfere with the surrender.

The Italian collapse was announced today by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Allied commander-in-chief of the Mediterranean, who said that he had granted a military armistice on Sept. 3 and that it was effective "this instant" (10:30 a.m., M.D.T.).

At that hour Eisenhower went to a microphone of the United Nations radio station here and read his statement to the world.

The Italian capitulation came five days after the Eighth Army of British and Canadian troops invaded the Italian mainland, and brought Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's historic march from El Alamein to a triumphant climax.

Gen. Eisenhower's Statement

Eisenhower said:

"This is Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander-in-chief of the Allied forces.

"The Italian government has surrendered its armed forces unconditionally.

"As Allied commander-in-chief I have granted a military armistice, the terms of which have been approved by the government of the United Kingdom, the United States, and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics.

"Thus I am acting in the interest of the United Nations. The Italian government has bound itself to abide by these terms without reservation.

"The armistice was signed by my representative and the representative of Marshal Badoglio, and it becomes effective this instant.

"Hostilities between the armed forces of the United Nations and those of Italy terminate at once. All Italians who now act to help eject the German aggressors from Italian soil will have the assistance and the support of the United Nations."

Make Appeal to Italian Fleet

Soon thereafter the Allies broadcast an appeal by Admiral Sir Andrew Browne Cunningham, Allied naval commander in the Mediterranean, to the Italian fleet, asking the sailors to keep their ships out of German hands.

A special announcement issued from Allied headquarters explained the developments leading up to the capitulation of Italy as follows:

"Some weeks ago the Italian government made an approach to the British and American governments with a view to concluding an armistice. A meeting was arranged and took place in neutral territory.

"It was at once explained to the representatives of the Italian government that they must surrender unconditionally. On this understanding representatives of the Allied commander-in-chief were empowered to communicate to them the military conditions which they would have to fulfill.

"One clause in these military terms binds the Ital-

Italy's Fall

Churchill, F.D.R. Receive News They Awaited

By MERRIMAN SMITH

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8—Prime Minister Winston Churchill and President Roosevelt, partners in the planning of Anglo-American military strategy, received today the news they had been expecting and waiting for—the news that the Axis had been split asunder with the capitulation of Italian armed forces.

The news, tersely flashed to the world from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's North African headquarters, represented the culmination of brilliant military operations conceived, in consultation with their staffs, by Churchill and Roosevelt in conferences begun here in December, 1941, and climaxed—as far as the Mediterranean theatre was concerned—in the historic meeting at Casablanca—early this year.

SURRENDER SURMISED

That Italian unconditional surrender was imminent was surmised here because of Churchill's prolonged stay in the United States after conclusion of the Quebec conferences last month.

It appeared probable that the Prime Minister and President had laid down the general terms of Italian capitulation — terms consonant with the "unconditional surrender" formula announced at Casablanca—but had left him with a relatively free hand to deal with Italian offers.

Almost the first speculation after the news arrived here was that other of Germany's satellite states would follow Italy in surrendering, possibly in the near future. The example of Italy, for example, might encourage Finland to make a separate peace with Soviet Russia, some sources believed.

JOY IN EUROPE

In any event, Italy's disaster is bound to be received with great joy in the various conquered countries of Europe.

At the war department the news, packed with portents as the most tumultuous single break in the Axis war front to date, was received with official silence.

Military observers, however, were quick to recognize the thus-far unparalleled opportunities now opened up for the Allied forces.

War department observers believed the Italian surrender will lead to rapid occupation of at least

Unconditional Surrender Of Italy's Armed Forces Announced; Given Armistice

ian government to comply with the political, economic and financial conditions of the Allies which will be imposed later.

"Further meetings were arranged and took place in Sicily. The armistice was signed at Allied advanced headquarters there on Sept. 3, but it was agreed with the representatives of the Italian government that the armistice should come into force at a moment most favorable to the Allies and be simultaneously announced by both sides. That moment has now arrived.

"The possibility of a German move to forestall publication of the armistice by the Italian government was discussed during the negotiations. To meet this eventuality it was agreed that one of the senior Italian military representatives should not return to Rome.

"He is now in Sicily.

"Further, Marshal Badoglio arranged to send the text of his proclamation to Allied headquarters."

Italians to Fight Any Nazi Attacks

Badoglio's proclamation as the head of the Italian government recognized the impossibility of continuing "the unequal struggle against overwhelming power," and said the armistice was requested to avoid "further and more grievous harm" to the country.

Under terms of the armistice, Badoglio pledged Italy to "oppose attacks from any other quarter," which meant she would war against Germany if the Nazis attacked Italian soil.

The capitulation of Italy might be expected to include the evacuation by the Italians of any territory taken by conquest since the war began, including Greece and Yugoslavia.

Should that occur the Germans will be strained to replace the Italian occupation forces, particularly at a moment when all German fighting divisions are needed on the Russian front.

Made Without Hitler's Knowledge

Negotiated secretly without Hitler's knowledge, according to official reports, the armistice represented the most severe blow the Germans had suffered and meant that the original Axis was no more.

The armistice was signed on the fourth anniversary of the declaration by Britain and France that a state of war with Germany existed.

The Italian government bound itself to comply with the political, economic and financial conditions which the Allies will impose later.

Italy fell out of the war just under three years and three months after she entered it on June 10, 1940.

Reason for Lack of Resistance

The armistice was signed on the day the Eighth Army launched the invasion of southern Italy, apparently explaining why no resistance worth mentioning was encountered. The Allies, however, continued bombing the key centres of Italy, presumably directing their continuing offensive against the German elements in control of them.

An hour after Eisenhower made the announcement by radio, a special release was issued, saying that the Italian people were being informed by radio and leaflet of the armistice.

"Italians," the leaflets said, "backed by the might of the Allies, Italy now has the opportunity of taking vengeance on the German oppressor and of aiding in the expulsion of the enemy from Italian soil."

The Italians were exhorted to see that no single train carrying German material be permitted to pass, and that dock workers allow no German ships to unload.

Asked Not to Scuttle Ships

Sailors of the Italian navy and mercantile marine were being notified that "the Germans have become your enemies." But they were asked not to scuttle their ships, instead sailing them if possible to safe ports in North Africa, Malta or wherever they could be put into Allied hands.

The sailors were told to fly a black or blue pennant and identify themselves to Allied ships and planes, to burn dim navigation lights at night, and to follow all directions of the United Nations forces.

The Italian navy consists of seven battleships, three aircraft carriers building, two heavy cruisers, nine lighter cruisers, 25 destroyers, and 60 submarines.

Besides completing the Allied control of the Mediterranean, the new acquisition of the Allies curtails German U-boat operations there.

With the use of Spezia, Pola, Taranto and Genoa naval bases, the Allies will be able to command and blockade the French coast, as well as the Adriatic including the Yugoslavia, Albania, and Greek coasts.

Italian shipping resources remaining in the Mediterranean are estimated at 300 vessels totalling 1,500,000 tons. Italy had 2,000,000 tons of shipping in the Mediterranean when she entered the war.

An official announcement credited the Italians with still having possession of the Rex and Conte Di Savoia, two luxury liners, despite a Washington announcement that one of the class was sunk off Bagnara last August.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Sept. 8.—The Anglo-Canadian Eighth Army has advanced another 13 miles around the toe of the Italian boot, it was announced today, and is pouring arms and stores into its bridgehead at a rate that presages an early extension of the offensive within Italy.

(A Berlin broadcast said Allied forces have landed in the Gulf of Eufemia on the northwestern coast of the Italian foot, presumably about 25 miles northeast of the main Eighth Army forces. London observers believed that any such operation would be in the nature of a Commando or "leap-frogging" thrust like those that marked the final stages of the Sicilian campaign.)

Montgomery's south coast column captured Bova Marina in an eight-mile advance from Melito, while other forces on the rocky north or northwest coast drove five miles beyond Palmi to within one mile of Gioia Taura, terminus of a cross-peninsula road.

OVERWHELM OPPOSITION

The British and Canadian invaders quickly overwhelmed the feeble opposition encountered and continued their advance at a rate governed only by the speed with which they could mend extensive enemy demolitions of bridges and precipitous roads.

Allied medium and fighter bombers gave the enemy a taste of his own medicine, however, with round-the-clock raids on the Calabrian Peninsula that cut the coastal railway near a bridge at Sapri behind the retreating Axis troops, damaged two railway bridges at Trebisacce on the Gulf of Taranto and wrecked motor vehicles on two roads in the Laurie-Lagonegro area.

American bombers hit at the network of air fields around Foggia, 80 miles northeast of Naples yesterday, and British and Canadian aircraft bombed Viterbo airfield, 44 miles north of Rome last night.

AUGUST BOMB TOTAL

Allied headquarters announced that the Northwest African Air Forces had dropped 11,000 tons of bombs on Italy in August, bringing the tonnage dropped by Allied fliers in this theatre since the first landings, Nov. 8, 1942, to 30,345.

In contrast to Allied bombing tactics over Northern Europe, most of the tonnage dropped in Italy was concentrated on railway yards, roads, bridges and air fields, with only a small percentage aimed at industrial plants.

(Rome radio complained against continued raids on Naples, which it said had been entirely devastated in 100 raids and cut off from the rest of Italy by the wrecking of its rail system.)

More than 200 square miles at the tip of the Italian toe now has fallen into British and Canadian hands without a full-scale battle and front dispatches said the troops were mystified by the almost complete lack of resistance on the part of the defenders.

TO WIDEN OFFENSIVE

However, officials emphasized that the Eighth Army was rushing stores and material into the bridgehead on an extensive scale, presumably presaging early extension of the offensive within Italy which has not yet reached anything like full momentum.

Allied heavy bombers again led the aerial assault against Italy, concentrating yesterday on the network of airfields around Foggia, 80 miles northeast of Naples. The targets were well-covered with bombs despite fog and 11 enemy fighters were shot down, the air communique said.

Medium and light bombers knocked out gun positions in the fighting area and blasted railway yards at Crotone and highways at Catanzaro. Fighter-bombers attacked a landing ground in Sardinia, set fire to a torpedo boat in the Tyrrhenian Sea and shot down an enemy transport plane. Another enemy plane was shot down off the North African coast. Four Allied planes were lost.

Gen. Sir Harold R. L. G. Alexander, commander of Allied ground forces in the Mediterranean theatre, was revealed to have flown to the Italian mainland 48 hours after the start of the invasion for a conference with Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, commander of the Eighth Army.

Safe, Easy War Boomeranged For Italians

his "march" on Rome in 1922 to become a dictator. Mussolini was ousted July 25, and his Fascist regime began to shred to ruins.

GLORIOUS AT FIRST

The first few months of war were benign and glorious for Italy. They brought a share in the spoils of beaten France, more of a "place in the sun."

In September, 1940, Italian legions were sent driving into Egypt, 300,000 strong, but they stopped after a 70-mile penetration. The British war office later disclosed that Mussolini was facing only a handful of British troops that had missed a golden chance to seize all of Egypt and Africa. So began the African campaign so ill-fated for Italy.

In October, 1940, after taking Albania, Mussolini lashed at Greece, with every expectation of a quick victory. But the astonishing Greeks threw him back nearly into the Adriatic Sea, and inflicted enormous losses in men, arms, and prestige upon the modern-day Romans. Mussolini was saved by Hitler, whose formidable armored columns smashed the Greeks and their British allies, to achieve victory in April, 1941.

FIRST AFRICAN REPULSE

With the Greek fiasco came the first repulse in Africa, with the Italians sent scampering 340 miles back to Bengasi early in 1941. Again Hitler came to Italian aid, and there were subsequent Italian-Axis triumphs in the see-saw battles of North Africa.

But when the disastrous retreat began at El Alamein last fall, the Italians were sacrificed over that sorrowful road as the rearguard troops to save the Germans, with scores of thousands of Italians killed, wounded, and captured. With the British 8th Army's advance into Tripoli, the African empire that Mussolini had expanded and glorified was at last fallen. It was a grievous blow to the prestige of the dictator.

this country will unite our efforts to the utmost to bring about the defeat of the remaining Nazi powers."

Canadian government sources, exulting in the part that Canadian arms have played in the Italian surrender, viewed the capitulation of Marshal Badoglio as a large scale equivalent of the second front for which Soviet Russia has been pressing.

GIVES SIGNAL FOR GENERAL REJOICING

OTTAWA, Sept. 8.—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King today gave the signal for a general rejoicing across Canada at the end of the war against Italy but at the same time warned of important struggles yet to come and urged an intensification of the war effort.

He expressed a wish that bells should ring across the country to mark the official defeat of the three Axis powers.

Meanwhile arrangements for the firing of a general salute by garrisons and units of the armed forces all across the country were under way.

The salute will be at five o'clock local time this afternoon and may be accompanied by parades or military displays in certain places.

Federal authorities requested civil, church and industrial officials, and A.R.P. wardens to blow whistles, sound sirens, ring bells, put up flags and do everything possible to co-operate with their local military authorities in marking the occasion.

Signing of the Italian armistice was hailed with satisfaction in official Ottawa circles as one of the great milestones in the war.

It was expected some special events would be arranged to celebrate the capitulation of the first of the three Axis partners.

NEW ROLE TO PLAY

In the midst of appraisal of the military and political significance of the event it was recalled that the Canadian troops now on Italian soil will have a new role to play.

As units of the British 8th Army they may or may not have further fighting with German forces in Italy but there will be no more fighting with the Italians who are to lay down their arms.

The Canadian Army entered the war against Italy on an active scale with the invasion of Sicily July 10, when the 1st Division landed with the 8th Army and fought its way across the big island.

Then came the landing in Italy, last Friday morning. Reports have indicated virtually no resistance from Italian forces on the mainland.

POWER SHATTERED

While the fall of Sicily and the invasion of the mainland were the last of Italy's pre-armistice reverses, the events which really shattered Italian power were the defeat of their armies in North Africa, the loss of their African empire, and the air bombardments of their cities.

Canadian land forces took little part in the capture of the Italian African empire, a job done by British, South African, Australian, Indian and Free French troops.

But in the air war in Africa and in the bombing of the Italian mainland Canadian airmen, trained in the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan schools in Canada and serving either in R.C.A.F. or R.A.F. squadrons, played a large role.

For more than a year Canadian airmen have been flying over the Alps from Britain to blast Italian munitions centres and ports.

From the start of fighting in the desert, Canadian airmen have been supporting the Empire armies in Africa. More recently Canadian fighter squadrons and still later a number of bomber squadrons were moved to Africa and have played a role in achieving air superiority over the enemy and later providing protection and advance demolition for the advancing armies.

Berlin Admits Soviet Capture Of Stalino City

the summer campaign of the Red Army.

It served to break the core of Nazi resistance in the thin and dangerously extended salient at the flank of which the advancing Russians were threatening to slice down to the Sea of Azov and trap tens of thousands of invasion troops.

The Germans took Stalino on Oct. 21, 1941, in their invasion sweep eastward through the Ukraine, and had held it ever since. Military quarters said that after losing this city the Nazis would have little reason for trying to hold on in the Donets basin.

The fall of Stalino had been foreshadowed for some days as the Russians swept through the basin, driving the Germans from town after town on its approaches. Yesterday it was reported by-passed and under virtual assault, making it untenable.

The battle for the complete liberation of the eastern Ukraine appeared to have reached its final phase, even as Soviet forces to the northwest all but severed rail communications between the Axis central and southern fronts.

The Red army's capture of Chesnokovka, six miles northwest of Bakmach Junction, yesterday cut the important Gomel-Bakmach trunk railroad and left the Germans only a single-track north-south line over which to move troops and supplies east of the Dnieper river.

More than 200 other towns and villages also fell to the Russians in advances of up to 12½ miles along a 200-mile front from the Sea of Azov to Smolensk yesterday and a special Soviet communique reported that at least 1,500,000 enemy troops had been killed or wounded in Russia in the two months since the Germans launched an abortive offensive near Kursk.

German dead alone in the two-month period totalled 420,000, and an additional 38,600 Grmans were captured. Booty captured included 1,041 tanks, 2,018 guns, 5,382 machine-guns, and 7,853 motor vehicles.

Enemy arms destroyed were listed as 5,729 planes, 8,400 tanks, 5,192 guns and more than 28,000 motor vehicles.

Earl of Athlone Flies to Alaska

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C., Sept. 8—The Governor-General paid his first visit to Alaska yesterday when he personally piloted part of the way northward from Prince Rupert a large amphibian bomber of the Royal Canadian Air Force.

The Earl of Athlone and his party visited an air base outpost in southeastern Alaska. His Excellency expressed himself as being well delighted with the aerial expedition which started in the morning and concluded with his return to Prince Rupert by early evening.

At the air base His Excellency saw a striking example of international co-operation between the United States and Canada in the defence of the Pacific coast.

He inspected and lunched at a Canadian-manned air base on Alaskan soil and for his benefit there was a demonstration of anti-aircraft fire by a battery directed by Capt. S. F. Maunsell of Vancouver and a Lt. James of Winnipeg.

a substantial portion of the Italian peninsula.

The Germans, however, may be expected to oppose completed Anglo-American domination of Italy. There have been indications that they will undertake to hold a line somewhere in northern Italy, despite the collapse of their erstwhile Allies.

MAY SET UP LINE

The Germans may try to hold the Po river valley and may attempt to establish a line in the Appenine mountains across Italy in the region of Florence. European sources recently have reported the withdrawal of German forces into northern Italy.

In addition to giving the Allies a tremendous advantage in land and air fighting, the Italian surrender will remove the last potential threat—inherent in continued existence of the Italian fleet as a fighting force—to Allied domination of the Mediterranean. The fleet comprises about 190 vessels, of which, however, by no means all are fit for sea duty.

The Italian collapse brought to the fore again the question of Benito Mussolini's whereabouts and the question of his surrender, as a war criminal, to the United Nations. Great Britain, the United States and Russia have warned neutral nations not to give sanctuary to Mussolini or other Axis leaders. Whether the terms of Italian surrender deal with the fate of the erstwhile Fascist dictator was not known.

Britain and United States Reach Virtual Agreement On Post-War Operation

By J. F. SANDERSON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8. — (CP) — Britain and the United States have reached a virtual agreement to maintain military collaboration and co-operation in the immediate post-war period, in order to block aggression and keep the peace, by force if necessary, it was learned here yesterday from a high Allied source.

The combined chiefs of staff committee, the top-level military organization of the two countries, will be retained in the transition period that will come between the firing of the last shot and the signing of a comprehensive peace treaty. The military leaders of other United Nations probably will be added to the chiefs of staff committee to make it more representative and embracing.

This is the background, it was revealed, for Prime Minister Churchill's speech at Cambridge, Mass., Monday, in which he said "It would be a most foolish and improvident act on the part of our two governments or either of them, to break up this smooth running and immensely powerful machinery (of the combined chiefs of staff committee) the moment the war is over.

VITAL FOR SECURITY

"For our own safety, as well as for the security of the rest of the world, we are bound to keep it working and in running order after the war, probably for a good many years . . ."

Commenting on Mr. Churchill's words, a high Allied source said yesterday too many people are under the impression that a peace conference and a peace treaty will follow immediately after the armistice. That, he said, is not being contemplated by those directing Allied military and political strategy.

It would be a good guess, he continued, that a period of transition, or a cooling-off period, will come between the firing of the last shot and the formal signing of a peace treaty.

It will be a good thing for humanity in general if the peace can be written in temperate language.

During this transition period, he continued, it will be necessary to maintain the peace by the victorious countries and the best medium would seem to be the retention of the combined chiefs-of-staff committee, watching the international situation as it develops, ready to apply force if necessary.

OTHER DEVELOPMENTS

Yesterday also brought these other developments in the field of foreign affairs:

1—Mr. Roosevelt hinted that a meeting attended by Mr. Churchill, Premier Stalin and himself may not be far off. He told his press conference that progress toward such a meeting has been made since his Quebec talks with Mr. Churchill, and that he hoped for additional progress in the next 24 to 48 hours.

2—The President developed the thought that countries receiving lend-lease aid from the United States will be under post-war obligation to repay as far as possible, but made clear that this did not mean payment would be expected in money. Mr. Roosevelt did not go so far himself, but a possible projection of his remarks was that lend-lease might well be remembered when the United States advances its ideas for a post-war world.

3—The Mediterranean commission, which it was disclosed Saturday is being formed and will have Soviet representation, was described authoritatively as being for the purpose of bringing peace to the Mediterranean area.

Speculation that Italy may be ready to sue for peace was stirred afresh by the indication that a Roosevelt-Churchill-Stalin conference may be held in the near future and the word that the Mediterranean commission will endeavor to bring peace to that area.

General George Marshall, United States Army chief-of-staff, in his biennial report released today set the cost of the Alaska Highway at $115,000,000, which includes the cost of constructing the pioneer road and improving it to its present proposed standards.

Alaska Highway Cost Announced As $115,000,000

By J. F. SANDERSON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—(CP)—The cost of the Alaska Highway was set at $115,000,000 today in a report by Gen. George Marshall, United States Army chief-of-staff.

He revealed that 10,000 American troops were used in the construction of the 1,480-mile pioneer road, built between March and October, 1942.

"Improvements currently under way," the report continued, "provide for a 26-foot roadbed width, with surfacing placed to a width of from 20 to 22 feet. Local materials (including gravel and crushed stone, will be utilized in this surfacing.

$115,000,000 TOTAL

"It is estimated that the cost of constructing the pioneer road, together with improving it to present proposed standards, will be $115,000,000, which figure includes the replacement of a considerable number of temporary structures destroyed during the recent spring thaw.

"Current improvements are scheduled for completion Dec. 31, 1943, and are going ahead largely by contract labor."

The Alaska Highway was built under an agreement between Canada and the United States. Although built entirely with American funds, it will become Canadian property after the war, with the stipulation that no discrimination be made against traffic originating in the United States.

Britain to Take Australian Flour

By J. D. HOLDSWORTH

Sydney, Australia, Sept. 8.—(CP)—Commerce Minister W. J. Scully yesterday announced Britain's decision to take 500,000 tons of flour from Australia within the next year.

In making the announcement, Scully said Britain previously had obtained most of her flour supplies from Canada.

The huge new order for Australia was obtained as the result of strong representations by the Australian government to Britain, he said. It will mean a tremendous fillip to the flour-milling industry here at a time when it had recently been suggested that half the commonwealth's flour mills would have to close. The order will be doubly valuable because the poultry trade is badly in need of by-products of flour milling, such as bran and Pollard.

Few Shells Fall

Unbelievably Easy Invasion Of Italy Amazes Canadians

By ROSS MUNRO

WITH THE CANADIANS IN ITALY, Sept. 6.—(Delayed)—(CP)—We thought those first few days on the Pachino Peninsula, where the Canadians first landed in Sicily nearly two months ago, made for a crazy kind of war but it was fairly reasonable compared to this unbelievably easy invasion of the Italian toe.

The Canadians have been in Italy for three days. Personally I have seen about a dozen enemy shells land and watched about five dive-bombing attacks by enemy aircraft with little inclination to get too close to the anti-aircraft fire around the targets. That is all in three days.

(The landings in Italy were made early Friday. Munro's dispatch was written Monday morning.)

I haven't heard a German machine-gun in Italy yet and the whang of 88-millimetre shells from a lone gun as we neared the shore was the only real chilly incident.

GREATEST SHOW ON EARTH

That night crossing of the Messina Strait as the invasion was launched could be billed anywhere as "the greatest show on earth." Impressions of this mighty spectacle will never leave the minds of the Canadians who saw the great barrage, searchlights probing the sky, smooth black water flickering with the light from the flaming guns on the Sicilian shoreline, fleets of landing craft moving silently towards Italy through smoke and mist.

Out there in mid-strait the barrage went on for so long you got tired of watching it. A French-speaking officer in our boat, Lt. Paul Boudreau of Quebec City, watched the shooting for a while and then fell sound asleep, waking up just in time to land.

Then after landing we walked down the centre of the main street of Reggio Calabria. The infantry were around us but they marched along as if they were occupying Aldershot on summer manoeuvres.

Even the reaction of the Italian civilians was something the Canadians had not expected. Some of us took over a couple of rooms in an apartment block for the first night and we have a caretaker and 15 occupants trying to make us comfortable. When we gave the caretaker a tin of stew he nearly wept with pleasure. He had been eating herbs for weeks.

CHILDREN PLEASED

A dozen children stood in the doorway, grinning volubly, and telling us everything that they could think of. We didn't understand a word. Still they were pleased.

I had to return to Sicily for a few hours. Sicily seemed thousands of miles from the war. A dozen times I was asked: "What's the reason for the lack of resistance? What are the Germans doing?" I could only think of one general answer: "We're winning." That doesn't cover it all but it goes a long way towards explaining the queer things in Italy.

Lend-Lease Aid For Argentina Refused by U.S.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—(AP)—State Secretary Cordell Hull has turned down in brusque language an Argentine bid for United States lend-lease aid, declaring that Argentina, in the opinion of the United States, "has indicated clearly that the Argentine armed forces will not under present conditions be used in a manner designed to forward the security of the new world."

The refusal was contained in an exchange of letters with Foreign Minister Segundo Storni of the South American republic, made public last night at the state department.

SAID ANTI-AXIS

Storni, in the letter opening the exchange, assured the secretary of state that Argentine sentiment is "firmly opposed to totalitarian regimes" and that "Axis countries have nothing to hope for from our government."

Storni said the "evolution" of the Argentine people toward the side of the United Nations would be more rapid and effective if President Roosevelt "should make a gesture of genuine friendship toward our people" such as providing urgently needed airplanes, spare parts, armaments and machinery.

Replying on Aug. 30, Hull wrote that "it is with regret that my government and the people of the United States have been forced to the conclusion that the undoubted sentiments of the Argentine people have not been implemented by the action called for by the commitments freely entered into by their government in common with the governments of the other 20 American republics."

Hull bluntly pointed out that the United States is at war and must allocate war materials where they will be used most effectively for the defence of the western hemisphere against aggression. He added:

AGREEMENT IMPOSSIBLE

"Since Argentina, both by its words and its actions, has indicated clearly that the Argentine armed forces will not under present conditions be used in a manner designed to forward the cause of the security of the new world, and thereby the vital war interests of the United States, it would be impossible for the president of the United States to enter into an agreement to furnish arms and ammunitions to Argentina under the lend-lease act."

Hull emphasized, moreover, that "questions of military and naval equilibrium as between American republics are surely inconsistent with the inter-American doctrine of the peaceful settlement of international disputes to which so many practical contributions have been made by Argentine statesmen."

Reports from South America in recent months have told of growing uneasiness in Argentina over the mounting military strength of Brazil, a recipient of lend-lease war supplies.

Storni frankly was attempting to explain and justify the general foreign policy of his government, and in particular the failure of Argentina to break relations with the Axis.

Argentina is the only American country maintaining diplomatic relations with the Axis powers.

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 8—(AP)—The Argentine cabinet decided last night at a two-hour meeting to publish the texts of messages exchanged between the United States secretary of state, Cordell Hull, and foreign minister Segundo Storni in which Hull refused an Argentine bid for lend-lease aid.

After the meeting Storni said it had been decided to distribute the messages without comment, leaving the press to express its own views.

'Front-Line Copy Boys' Keep War News Moving

By MAURICE DESJARDINS

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Sicily, Sept. 6. — (Delayed)—(CP)—"The copy must get through." Canadian "front-line copy boys" have kept this in mind while riding their motorcycles under enemy fire, acting as a first link between the news of fighting Canadians and the people back home.

During a night ride near Valguarnera carrying copy for The Canadian Press, Pte. Cliff Peever of Pembroke, Ont., was blown off his bike by an enemy bomb and hurled against a stone wall. He got up, half-stunned, and took the stories on to an airport. Later near Regalbuto a German sniper put three holes in his motorcycle.

Passing through Leonforte, Sgmn. Leslie (Gerry) King of Vancouver got involved with an American truck convoy which was strafed by four German planes.

"We dashed for the rocks above the road," he said. "The planes swooped down four times but none of their shells struck home."

RIDER STRAFED

Pte. Jack Miles of Vancouver, another member of the trio of dispatch riders who went through the Sicilian campaign, was strafed near Piazzo Armerina.

"I guess people back home sure are interested to know what the lads are doing here," said King.

They have never missed a day and at the end of each perilous run they lie down dead tired. The continued vibration and bouncing has given them "motorcycle stomach"—a war disease also contracted by riding daily in jeeps.

Since the start of the Allied campaign in Italy, dispatch riders take eyewitness copy brought by the navy to Sicilian embarkation beaches and rush it to airports in the southern part of Sicily.

On Sunday King drove into the airport with a batch of copy. He saw a Hurricane half a mile away taxiing towards the runway. He dashed across the choppy field on his bike, waving his arms wildly. The pilot applied the brakes, opened the cowling, grabbed the envelope and tasked off immediately, almost bowling over the panting dispatch rider with the wash from the propeller.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Carried on a sudden gust of wind, more than $21,000 in bills was swept out of the window of an office yesterday. From his eighth-storey perch, the owner of that airborne fortune, Abraham Watner, general manager of Meadowridge Memorial Park, Inc., watched aghast as unidentified pedestrians collected and made off with much of the wealth. Watner recovered $9,910.

U.S. Forces Sank 29 of 90 U-Boats

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—(AP)—The United States navy department disclosed yesterday that of the more than 90 enemy U-boats sunk during May, June and July, 29 were destroyed by American forces.

Twenty-four of the submarines were sent to the bottom by American naval forces, the Navy said, and five were sunk by United States Army aircraft.

The Navy's disclosure came shortly after Navy Secretary Frank Knox told newsmen that although the submarine menace may appear to be less serious than a few months ago, the lack of enemy activity may be because Germany has withdrawn many U-boats to bases for repairs and refitting with additional anti-aircraft weapons before launching new attacks.

In addition to the 29 U-boats destroyed by U.S. forces, at least three additional undersea craft, and probably others, were sunk by United States forces co-ordinating their attacks with craft of other united nations, and by other American operations, the Navy said.

What kind of clothing will we wear after the war?

AMONG many things that War has proved is this one thing: War has a great effect on the kind of clothing we wear after that War is over.

New materials, new ideas, new methods of production, which are the result of man's wartime ingenuity, find their place in civilian life when the men come marching home. Remember the changes in clothing after the last War? It happened then—and it is going to happen again. We at Tip Top Tailors are not now thinking of after the war. We are too busy supplying our Armed Forces with uniforms—and as many civilians as we are able to, with their clothing. (Over 80 per cent of our production is devoted to war needs). But of this you may be sure: After Victory is won, the experience and knowledge that we have gained during the war period, will go in full measure into Tip Top Tailors' clothing.

There will be new ideas, new fabrics, new styles and designs, new conceptions of comfort. Whatever form they take—and we have ideas of our own tucked away in our mind—you will hear about them first from Tip Top Tailors.

In the meantime, we are continuing without let-up with the biggest job of our 55 years—the assignment of keeping our Armed Forces comfortably clad in uniforms of quality unexcelled in any army in the world.

Old Cars a Menace

The swiftest electric train on a major U.S. railroad was wrecked Monday, en route from Washington to New York. The disaster is one of the worst in the railroad history of the continent, 78 persons having been killed, and 150 injured, some of these badly.

Aside from warning against the speed mania, the moral is the danger of using old and comparatively lightly constructed cars on present-day high-speed trains. The accident is attributed to a hot-box in a truck of the seventh car, an old wooden coach. This car was thrown against a steel girder and split from end to end. All the dead were found in this and the following day coach.

No persons were killed in the modern all-steel cars. That seems to clinch the argument that cars built for other days and more moderate rates should not be coupled into trains otherwise made up of cars specially built for high speed.

On Canadian railways at least, in wartime this may have to be done, for traffic is heavy and rolling stock is insufficient. Where done, caution should be the first and last word in setting train schedules. And as soon as the war ends, obsolete cars should go to the scrap heap.

V

Extending the Blitz

Allied bombers gave Labor Day a realistic touch in Germany, by substantially increasing the employment awaiting the Nazi salvage and reconstruction units. Sunday night they dropped 1,500 tons of bombs on Mannheim and Ludwigshafen, on the upper Rhine. Monday they turned Stuttgart into a bonfire. Monday night they blasted Munich, cradle of Nazism, and only a hundred miles from Berchtesgaden.

Having crippled the iron and steel producing plants in the Ruhr, the air offensive is now directed at the centres where this raw material is turned into weapons.

The swarms of fighters through which the bombers have to battle their way to their targets show how desperately the enemy is trying to ward off these attacks. That is Berlin's tribute to the effectiveness of the airblitz in destroying munitions factories; and the proof of what this destruction means to the fighting forces of the Reich in their defensive battle in Russia and Italy.

German plants, it is said, have almost entirely ceased to produce bombers, and are devoting their energies to building fighter aircraft. That is the measure of the importance Herr Goering attaches to the prevention of demolition raids on the industrial cogs in the war machine. He knows that a modern army can be as decisively defeated by depriving it of arms as by shooting it to pieces in the field.

V

Hitler's "Fortress"

Allied intelligence sources say the Axis powers have spread eight million soldiers on guard along the six thousand miles of Europe's coastline which they control. That averages at around 1,400 men to the mile.

As three million of Hitler's best are in Russia, the coast-watchers must be made up very largely of men not fit for first-line duty. Their number is thus more impressive in the aggregate than when it is broken down into the numbers available to defend a hundred separate points of threat, and when their fighting quality is taken into account.

Assuming the figures to be somewhere near the mark, the supplying and arming of eleven million men, a third of whom are expending and losing supplies and equipment in train-loads daily, must be straining the still functioning production resources of the Reich to the limit. And the ceaseless destruction of railway lines in France, Germany, Italy and Russia creates a serious problem in the assembling of men and equipment at coastal points where invasion seems imminent.

Germany is still strong. That fact is not to be denied nor discounted. But the scattering of its forces from Norway to the Balkans is dissipating its strength, and doing so in proportion to the number of points at which the western Allies threaten to strike.

Hitler's continental "fortress" is not impregnable. He has taken in too much territory for a successful defense. A breach has been made in Italy. Others will be made elsewhere, despite the eight million coast guards.

V

No Jam Today?

The rationing of jam and other "sweet spreads" has not thus far accomplished all that the housewife and her glamorous family hoped for. It has not made these things available to everybody in the restricted amounts named in the order. It has restored them to the grocery shelves from which they were absent; but to get one of the cans or bottles to take home is another matter.

For the reason that a coupon is good for only six or eight ounces. But the sweet spreads are not all put up in containers of this small capacity. The four pound pail of jam, for instance, calls for eight coupons. A large family can pool their dated coupons and get a pail, but it is beyond the reach of small families. Because of war conditions, the boys and girls of most households are scattered, leaving the family-group too small to take advantage of the rationing arrangement.

No doubt in time the manufacturers will put up their products in containers to correspond to the monthly ration allowances. But meanwhile the housewife whose children are few or away from home can get nothing more than the empty satisfaction of seeing what jam pails look like once more as they stand in neat array on the store shelves.

At that, the rationing plan is an improvement. It has stopped the rioting that used to occur when a clerk brought in a case of the much-wanted commodities from the warehouse, and thus started a rush in which politeness gave way to more primary instincts. And when the accumulated stocks have been cleared off smaller containers will appear as the normal result of demand.

V

At Harvard, Mr. Churchill stressed the idea that "The price of greatness is responsibility". Canadians can no more afford to ignore that fact than the people of the United States, for it is self-evident. Whether we like it or not, we are bound in self-security to interest ourselves in world affairs. There is no such thing as a nation living in isolated safety anywhere on the globe.

V

Of 121 Nazi prisoners who have got out of Canadian internment camps, only one remains at large. This is a good showing, and should discourage further attempts to escape custody. If made known to the inmates of the camps it should show them that the chance of getting clear is not good enough to make it worth while to burrow under the fence or crawl through a sewer just to get outside the barrier.

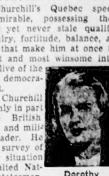
Mr. Churchill's Speech at Quebec

Surveys War Situation As a United Nations Spokesman

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

Mr. Churchill's Quebec speech was admirable, possessing those familiar yet never stale qualities of chivalry, fortitude, balance, and candor, that make him at once the grandest and most winsome interpreter alive of the fighting democratic spirit.

Mr. Churchill spoke only in part as the British political and military leader. He made a survey of the war situation as a United Nations statesman, and spoke politically as the mouthpiece of America as well as British, indicating complete Anglo-American agreement.



Dorothy Thompson

His speech confirms that there are major differences of opinion between the Anglo-American powers and Russia. Fortunately, it was full of hope that the relations between the western democracies and our continental ally may be clarified. But there was no indication of the basis on which such agreement might be reached. There was only an account of a proposed procedure, namely a meeting of the three foreign ministers, to be followed, in case an agreement is thus reached in principle, by a meeting between Stalin, Churchill and Roosevelt.

In such a situation it is a most unhappy thing that one commentator, Drew Pearson, should have made the utterly irresponsible charge against the American state department of refusal to see Russia bled white. The most consistent critics of the state department are forthright in such an allegation. Mr. Churchill rightly pointed out that Russia has been the recipient, from Britain and Britain, of enormous amounts of munitions, and it is well known that the President and Mr. Churchill have pushed through priorities for aid to Russia, often over the objections of their own military staffs.

Mr. Acheson presented the case between Russia and the western democracies with fairness and candor—and for the candor especially, we must be extremely grateful. It is better for all concerned to recognize that there are issues, than to be led to believe that no differences exist.

The differences to which Mr. Churchill devoted so large a part of his speech, lie right out in front of us, as Mr. Pearson suggested. They arise, chiefly out of disparities between Russia and the west concerning, first, what is militarily possible, and second, what is to be expected in Germany.

Mr. Churchill's speech was made with a subtle choice of words, but the Russians will understand exactly what he said. It is inconceivable that he referred to the western democracies as "the two great powers of the sea and of the air," and added that our armies have not been created since the outbreak of war. He did not need to underline the fact that in this they differ greatly from the Russian armies, which have been recruited by universal service for a long period.

To underline his fairness he said that the Russians are entitled to ask for a second front, that it is thoroughly understandable that they should, but he hardened on the proposition that we shall make a major operation only when we are reasonably certain of its success, and—to put it bluntly—that our own military chiefs, and not the Russians are going to be the judge of that matter. That a large soldier force across the channel will be opened was promised again. But the indication of the speech was that it will not be done now. The greater probability appears to be the opening of yet another front in the Mediterranean.

It is clear that the Russians believe that Germany can be cracked this year by a joint military and political offensive. Up to now our leaders have been consistent in assuring us that we must expect a long war before Germany collapses. Mr. Churchill, summarizing recent events in Germany, the occupied countries, and the Russian successes and the effects of the Anglo-American bombings, admitted a possibility. But he expressed himself as unwilling to base military strategy on such speculations and declined to discuss the length of the war, from the viewpoint of German mass psychology.

On this question there are real divergencies of viewpoint not only between the Russian analysis and our leaders, but in our own camp. Some of us believe, for instance, that the Casablanca formula of unconditional surrender has been an unfortunate impediment in cracking German home front, and that German domestic propaganda justifies this opinion. This point was not touched upon by Mr. Churchill, nor could he touch upon it until after a conference with Stalin. For the post-war German question is obviously concerned in peace planning. Mr. Churchill wisely left it open.

I got the impression from the speech that we are reversing the policy of postponing post-war questions until after victory, and that a sincere attempt will be made to find a compromise with the Russians. Apparently we have postponed political discussion because the Russians made a second front according to their own specifications a condition for opening them. The speech left the hope that this condition can be lifted and that we can begin, at least, and soon, to reach post-war agreements.

Bank of Montreal Reaches Another Milestone

Little Banking Office Opened in Edmonton in 1903

Another milestone in Edmonton's history is reached today as the Bank of Montreal celebrates its 40th anniversary, recalling the opening in 1903 of a little banking office in premises formerly used as a barber shop, located in the east end of the city—acirecumstance which contrasts sharply with the present fine building at the south-east corner of Jasper and 101st streets, in the heart of the business section.

At that time the population was about 10,000, and although confidence in the future of the province and looking forward to its destiny as capital of the foothills province, this fulfilling the promise made by the government of Canada in 1872, few indeed could have visualized the tremendous growth and expansion of the city.

First Manager

Older residents will perhaps recall some familiar names associated with the Bank of Montreal in Edmonton. C. F. Winslow was named as the first manager, followed by G. S. Hensley and F. C. Ridley. Following Mr. Ridley was Frank Pike, best known of the early managers, who was in charge of the office for almost 20 years, until his retirement two years ago. The present manager, Thomas Dickson, was appointed in September, 1941, and he has become well and favorably known.

With the incidence of wartime conditions, an added importance is thrust upon the bank's role as in the past when the railway pioneers foresaw Edmonton as the gateway to the north, the engineer of today sees the city as a vital link in a route to the fighting zones through the Northland and Alaska. Similarly, the commercial engineer perceives the capital as one of the greatest flying centres of agent Dominion.

History of Parent Bank

It was on November 2, 1817, when pioneer Canadians were doing practically all their business by barter, that the Bank of Montreal—the first permanent bank in British North America—opened its doors for business in a modest little rented office in St. Paul Street, Montreal, with the formidable capital of $250,000.

Trading in the Canadian colonies in the early 1800's was carried on under great handicaps, and it was, in fact, to ameliorate the exceedingly primitive conditions of commerce under which the business men of that day had to conduct their financial affairs that the bank was established.

At the time Canada, of course, had no currency of its own. The colonies were much too poor to afford such a luxury, and not only American, British and French, but Spanish and Portuguese money was in circulation. Naturally, the ratios of exchange into colonial money, of account were subject to frequent variations. As a consequence domestic trade was carried on principally, by barter and international business was on a very unstable basis.

Issued Paper Currency

Founded by nine English and Scottish merchants of Montreal, the bank set about the business of giving some order to the chaotic state to the financial life of the country, and its first task was the issue of paper currency, that is, the bank's own bills in small denominations—and, later, copper coins. Specimens of this currency—which was in reality the Canadian money—are preserved in the bank's museum in Montreal.

Not only did the bank provide a medium of exchange such as had hitherto been lacking, but it nursed along the early enterprises of the country, notably establishing the difficulties of interurban, interprovincial and international trading.

One of the most important factors contributing to this achievement was the policy, adopted by the bank's directors at the inception, of setting up branches and agencies at strategic points in the colony. For instance, two weeks after the founding of the institution in Montreal the directors opened an agency at Quebec City, which six months later became known as an "Office of Discount and Deposit". In the following month agents were appointed at Kingston, which was then important as a garrison town, and York, as Toronto was then known, which, with a population of 1,000, was an outpost for lumbering and fur trade—industries which formed the only basis for the export business of the country.

And so it was everywhere throughout the country; as conditions demanded the bank planted its branches for facilitating the agricultural development of the country, its manufacturing industries, and its general commerce.

Pioneering Spirit

Since those pioneering days when the bank's officers travelled from branch to branch, "at first safe opportunity" as old records say, to this modern era when the institution sends its representatives out to the frontiers by airplane to open branches in the mining country, the history of the Bank of Montreal copiously demonstrates that the pioneering spirit of Canada's earliest bankers has motivated the conduct of their successors from one generation to the next.

Today the bank has more than 450 branches throughout Canada and Newfoundland, with its own offices in London, New York, Chicago and San Francisco. The size of its capital and reserves at $75,000,000 today stands in sharp contrast with the corresponding figure of more than a century ago, when the bank began business with $250,000. Perhaps a more graphical indication of the bank's growth and the assistance it has rendered toward the development of the country is the fact that today it has over a million deposit accounts—about one in every four in the Dominion.

Special Wartime Services

Under the stress of present-day war conditions, the institution with its great resources, its 125 years' experience and its nationwide system of branches, is playing its part in the nation's war effort just as it did 25 years ago. In hundreds of communities great and small, the bank is working with Canada's industry and agriculture by furnishing credit and the many essential banking and financial services. Further, it is aiding the government by promoting victory loan campaigns, by the sale of war savings certificates and in other war activities.

Canada and the Future

FROM THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

Immediately after the war is over, Canada seems destined to enjoy a period of great prosperity. This is so because the people in the war torn countries, with the return of peace, will first seek to obtain from other export staples which Canada has in great abundance.

But this prosperity may be short lived, because Russia, India, Australia, in addition to Argentina and the United States, will, after a year or two, be seeking outlets for wheat. Meanwhile, production will have been restored to normal in Europe's granary. Within a few years Canada may be confronted again with a farm surplus—lower prices and depression. The prospects of good times over the longer period must depend upon industrial development. For this there must be large foreign investments.

Great amounts of capital from other countries will be coming into Canada only if the government of that country gives evidence that it stands ready to treat existing industries and will respect the rights of those who provide them. It must be clear as it has not always been in the past, that foreign capital will be treated with fairness and impartiality. This means avoiding other things that the more efficient producers will not be handicapped to protect investments in obsolescent and inefficient establishments.

Thoughtless persons who yielded to the temptation to satisfy their political whims must be curbed. If Canada will welcome foreign investment as heartily as the United States did before the last war, Canada may become one of the foremost industrial countries in the world. For the possession of great natural resources is not enough to make the inhabitants of a country prosperous. Many lands mineral and fertile lands in abundance and is poor. Mexico treated foreign capital with such shabby that no sensible person would think of backing any industry there. Experience of our southern neighbor should be an object lesson to our northern neighbor.

Antiques Gaining Popularity

Duncan Phyfe Famous Cabinetmaker Worked in New York

By MARY ALICE QUAYNE

I have been told that right now there is a boom in the demand for furniture and other household goods. The wise ones, as usual, have many explanations for this—the lack of new furniture, the increase of extra cash floating around in lots of pockets, the inevitable group of wary investors who look askance at inflationary possibilities and run quick to the nearest antique dealer to put their money in something they think will be safe and lasting.

And then there are those fans who, year in and year out, hunt down additions to their collections and who are occupied by neither snow, nor sleet, nor gas rationing, nor war in their pursuits of the old and the beautiful.

The new and uninitiated buyers of antiques have a thing or two to learn about the antique dealer who is more than not the queer cove who would rather buy than sell. True it is that the average dealer, rubbing his hands lovingly over a table top and pronouncing the word patina as if it were pure poetry, lives in a world apart from the average dealer in household furnishings.

Swap

Your true antique dealer, who is always an antique lover, will quite likely consider the selling of a fine piece with the concern and brutal twinge of a social worker putting one of her charges up for adoption. He'd rather swap with his kind any day in the week than sell to your cigar-chewing businessman who has heard that antiques are a sound investment.

Antique dealers get much more excited over a swap than over a good sale. And he is happiest when he gathers together with his fellows and goes in for a fancy foray of mutual ear bending.

Naturally, there are clip-artists in the antique business—as in other trades—but these are getting fewer by the year. Not as you might imagine, because of indignant customers, but because the reputable dealers wish their heart in their work and that is meant quite literally, make it more difficult as the years go by, for sharp and phony methods to be practiced.

A fake antique may make a buyer, in the beginning, very sore, but a fake antique brings tears of rage, a rising gorge and a state of near-apoplexy to your true antique dealer.

Duncan Phyfe

Here are some interesting facts about that famous Duncan Phyfe, the Scottish cabinetmaker, who attained fame for his tables and chairs created in New York in the late 18th century.

The gruff old party in the portrait is definitely a craftsman, proud of his trade and his tools. He holds his tools in his workingman's hands, he wears a smock and a Scotch cap. The hard gleam of integrity is in his eyes and you suspect that he might be a hard taskmaster.

Meet Mr. Duncan Phyfe, the Scotch cabinetmaker, in one of his few known portraits. Unsigned, the picture was probably painted by one of his workmen, for it is executed in furniture paint on regular blond cabinet wood.

With this word picture it somehow makes all the odd facts of his life fall into an understandable pattern. You admire his success and how this firm-chinned man appealed to John Jacob Astor as a good risk—for it was that recommendation that brought to the Phyfe furniture, thus creating a vogue that swept New York more than 175 years ago.

Phyfe started to make furniture in Albany, but, being hard-headed as well as artistic, he realized that the up-river community would not bring the success he sought. He must get in a big city. Thus he pioneered—creating the pattern of the artist who follows the path of success to New York. At the height of his success there he employed over 100 men in his shop.

Only Mahogany

The delicacy of much of his furniture, particularly his chairs, which are considered his highest achievement, somewhat belies his other known characteristics. He was a shrewd business man and seemingly had great contempt for other furniture makers of his day—particularly when "Victorian" became popular, his choler rose to monumental heights. "Butcher furniture" he called it. He was, in a sense, a purist—he was satisfied with any other wood save mahogany.

Phyfe, in his portrait, looks like an angry man—a man who had seen the best of his creations ruined by the fans, who had himself designed monstrosities to satisfy his customers. Perhaps the most significant observation anyone can make when looking at the primitive painting is: "He just seems mad at the whole world. Look, he didn't even bother to shave!"

Washington Merry-Go-Round

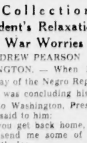
Stamp Collection Is President's Relaxation From War Worries

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON.—When President Barclay of the Negro Republic of Liberia was concluding his official visit to Washington, President Roosevelt said to him:

"When you go back home, don't forget to send me some of those stamps with leopards on them."

Perhaps that little anecdote illustrates what still remains the President's favorite hobby, despite the war. There is no doubt that it helps so much to give him a moment's relief from the worries of war as having a volume of stamps sent up on his breakfast tray on a Sunday morning.



Drew Pearson

And on most Sunday mornings he shuffles new stamps, pastes them in the albums, and personally keeps his collection up to date. Some collectors employ experts to keep their collections in shape and the President has had a small amount of help from Gerard Beekman, who also helps Secretary Ickes. For the most part, however, Roosevelt handles his stamp collection personally.

Although the President's stamp collection is probably the most famous in the world, it is not the best. The late King George V far surpassed him, had some 500 volumes. The President's collection numbers only 40 volumes, with from 25,000 to 30,000 stamps.

In this country, also, the President's collection is easily surpassed by those of Soi Newberry, of Chicago, and E. Albert Hasenstab, an army doctor from Picher, Okla.

Though he may miss some of the fine points of philatelism, the President misses none of the fun. When he trades stamps with Harold Ickes, they do it as a couple of boys—trading stamp for stamp, and not bargaining for value.

The President has received many a rare one from foreign governments—an autographed stamp Ignace Paderewski of Poland; plus some rare Turkist stamps sent by the late Kemal Ataturk. And when Soviet Ambassador Litvinoff came to the White House one day, he carried under his arm a beautiful book of Russian stamps, embossed with the hammer and sickle.

Technically it is against the law for the President to receive these gifts. To protect presidents against the blandishments of foreign princes, the Founding Fathers wrote into the Constitution a provision that "no person holding any office of profit or trust" can, without the consent of Congress, accept of any present, or title of any kind whatever, from any king, prince, or foreign state."

However, nobody seems greatly worried about whether the President receives pictures of pianos-playing presidents, Turkist scimitars, or Liberian leopards, so long as he gets some fun out of it.

Note.—Many recent Presidents have been stamp collectors, including Coolidge, Cleveland and Teddy Roosevelt. Mr. and Mrs. Hoover had and excellent collection of Chinese and Australian stamps when they lived in those countries, but did not keep it up when they returned home.

Shabbier

LONDON TIMES

There will be less civilian clothing available in the next rationing period, which begins in September, and purchasing power will be restricted to something between 36 and 48 and 48 of present coupon values.

Clothing rations have to be cut according to the available cloth. The clothing budget of the Board of Trade is made up of 750,000,000 garments a year. This is a war-time measurement of civilian needs. What the Board of Trade cannot know is the extent to which individual reserves of clothing are being worn out, and the new demand which will consequently be felt. This is a contingency for which the department is unable to provide at a time when total supplies will be less.

The result may well be that every one will have to be a little shabbier than he or she had expected to be.

Confident Survey

War Now in Final Phase, Victory Sure, U.S. General States in Biennial Report

By J. F. SANDERSON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—(CP)—Gen. George C. Marshall, United States army chief-of-staff, reported today that the war has entered its final phase, with the Allies mounting a series of offensives which will end only with the absolute defeat of the Axis.

In a confident survey of war conditions, Gen. Marshall said that the strength of the Axis definitely was waning while the combined power of the United Nations increases month by month.

Avoiding any prediction of how long the war might last, he submitted to War Secretary Henry Stimson his biennial report, stating "The end is not yet clearly in sight but victory is certain."

BLOCKADE COMPLETE

"Strategically, the enemy in Europe has been reduced to the defensive and the blockade is complete.

"In the Pacific, the Japanese are being steadily ejected, or rather eliminated from their conquered territory. Our progress may seem slow but it is steady and determined, and it has been accompanied by a terrific destruction of enemy planes and surface vessels. This attrition must present an appalling problem for the enemy high command."

The war has entered its final phase, Marshall said—a phase which "involves the launching of Allied military power against our enemies in a series of constantly increasing offensive blows until they are beaten into complete submission."

He left no doubt that the plans were drawn and eventual success certain for this coming series of blows.

Concerning Russian demands for a second land front in western Europe, Marshall had nothing to say specifically, but he asserted that the Allied bomber offensive against the continent "gives promise of being a decisive factor in the ultimate destruction of the German citadel."

Referring to organization of the combined chiefs of staff to direct the war, Marshall said:

POWERFUL EFFECT

"Probably no other Allied action, in the field or otherwise, has exerted as powerful an effect on the conduct of the war."

The combined bomber operations, together with naval measures, already "appear to be in process of driving the submarines from the seas," he added.

The conquest of North Africa placed the United Nations in a position to assault Europe itself, but "this was only one result of the victory," said Marshall, naming as others the opening of the Mediterranean with an immediate saving in shipping equivalent to 240 vessels, rebirth of the French army, proof of the Allied air forces' technique of co-ordination with ground troops and strategic air power.

Finally a unity of Allied effort—command and staff — "had been demonstrated to the world in a most convincing manner, as evidence of the growing concentration of power which will sweep the enemy out of control of the European continent."

Post-War Policy Statement Asked

WINNIPEG, Sept. 8—(CP)—The Winnipeg Trades and Labor Council unanimously approved an open letter last night which will be sent to Prime Minister Mackenzie King demanding "an early, clear and unequivocal declaration of post-war policy."

The letter, read by Donovan Swailes, council secretary said "such a declaration made now would, we believe, make possible the uninterrupted continuation of the war effort, provided that it would guarantee the higher standard of life . . ."

The council said that unless Labor got some clear answers it was justified in taking every possible action now, while the war is still on, to place itself in a favorable position.

The letter to the Prime Minister also said:

"The actions of some of your ministers, particularly of the minister of munitions and supply, and the minister of labor, lead us to believe that just as soon as the sharp emergency of war is over, the slight consideration which has been shown to Labor during the war will be replaced by the whip of the slave driver."

Mother Acquitted Of Child Murders Due to Insanity

REGINA, Sept. 8.—(CP)—A Saskatchewan Court of King's Bench jury yesterday found Mrs. Frank Bill, 30-year-old Regina mother who drowned her two children in a basement cistern, insane and acquitted her on a charge of murder.

Mr. Justice Donald Maclean remanded Mrs. Bill in custody.

The woman had been charged after the children, Ernest, three, and Marilyn, five-weeks-old, were found in the cistern here Jan. 2 last.

Dr. George F. Nelson of Regina testified that from his observations he believed Mrs. Bill had been fighting with the idea of doing away with herself and children for some time prior to Jan. 2.

Popular Axis Song 'Captures' 8th Army

By MAURICE DESJARDINS

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Sicily, Sept. 6.—(Delayed)—(CP)—Allied and Axis troops in the central Mediterranean agree on at least one thing: the catchiness of a song called "Lilly Marlen."

Even the British Tommy has forgotten "Madamoiselle From Armentiers."

It seems strange that the song which has captured the hearts of the lads of the 8th Army should be the former song of the German Africa Corps. The tune was picked up from German short-wave broadcasts to troops fighting in North Africa.

INCREDIBLY POPULAR

Incredibly popular, the song has sweetly sentimental lyrics dealing with a golden-haired fraulein wearing a rose in her hair and answering to the name of Lily Marlen. Despite the saccharine lyrics, the song is performed with great eclat with much stamping of feet and banging of fists on the table, some thing like drinking songs of the "Stein Song" type.

Throughout the Sicilian campaign Lilly indiscriminately divided her time between Allied and Axis bivouacs. Then the Sicilians learned the tune from Italian soldiers. Today there is not a barbino who cannot sing "Lilly Marlen." In Catania a four-year-old urchin came up to our jeep with hands stretched out, singing the first line of the song in Italian.

To Sicilians the status of the song is not quite clear yet. A Canadian army newsreel man, Lieut. Colin McDougall of Ottawa, was whistling "Lilly" during a halt on the Messina road when a brunette, overhearing the tune, asked him if the Allied authorities might not arrest him if they heard him.

Berlin Services Crippled by Raid

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 8.—(AP)—The recent Allied bombings of Berlin have not only transformed wide areas of the German capital into rubble, but paralyzed its public services and much of its amusement facilities, according to travellers arriving in Sweden.

A newly received issue of the Berlin newspaper Lokalanzeiger stated some 7,000 persons are being fed by means of a public kitchen in one southwest Berlin suburb alone.

"When those big R.A.F. bombs hit a building," said one traveller, "there was absolutely nothing left. And those (people) in basement shelters, reinforced though they are, never get out. They are hopelessly trapped."

"I saw people running down the streets absolutely mad, their clothes blazing like a torch."

Ration Books May Be Given Retailers

OTTAWA, Sept. 8.—(CP)—Provision for the holder of a ration book owner to leave his book, card or a sheet from the book with his retailer is contained in a consolidated order covering rationing rules issued yesterday by the Prices Board.

The order provides that the book, card or sheet left with the retailer must include the stub signed by the consumer. Every time a sale is made to the consumer, the retailer must detach enough coupons to cover the quantity delivered.

It was learned this provision applies to cash as well as to charge-account customers. It applies to many housewives who deal steadily with the same retailer, in addition to those who order by telephone from one retailer and do not wish to take in ration books every day they intend to purchase rationed goods.

Social Workers To Seek Total Of $5,033,412

By DOUGLAS GREEN

OTTAWA, Sept. 8.—(CP)—Canada's social workers, employing a combined operations technique, soon will ask the public for $5,033,412 so 425 welfare agencies can continue their work for another year.

The fall campaigns of Canadian community chests will run through late September to Oct. 1, and the Canadian welfare council of Ottawa named in 1939 as national centre of chest activity, has adopted the slogan "Worth Fighting For . . . Worth Giving For" to spur the drives.

LATEST CAMPAIGN

Largest of the campaigns will be that of the United Welfare fund of Toronto, embracing 76 of the city's social welfare and health organizations and uniting what used to be 18 separate campaigns. In a drive lasting from Sept. 20 to Oct. 1 the U.W.F. will ask Torontonians to contribute $2,553,226.

Though Toronto's drive is the largest single one of the approaching local campaigns, it is outstripped in combined objective by Montreal's three separate community chest drives, embracing the Welfare Federation of Montreal, the combined Jewish appeal and the Federation of Catholic Charities. Combined objective of the Montreal campaigns is $1,680,450.

In 1942, the campaign objective of Canadian community chests was $4,498,616. The objective for 1943 at $5,033,412 is greater by $534,796.

Following are some of the fall campaigns of Canadian community chests, with number of agencies, objectives and dates at which drives open:

Edmonton, 27 agencies, $98,000, Sept. 13; Lethbridge, Alta., 13, unreported, Sept. 20; Regina, 15, $50,000, Sept. 20; Saskatoon, 14, $33,000, Sept. 16; Vancouver, 55, $501,736, Sept. 12; Victoria, 21, $85,000, Sept. 27; Winnipeg, 25, $325,000, Sept. 13.

The needs of additional agencies were provided for in spring campaigns at Brandon, Man., and Calgary.

Official List Of Casualties

ROYAL CANADIAN NAVY

OTTAWA, Sept. 8.—(CP)—The Royal Canadian Navy reported last night in its 209th casualty list the war that two officers previously reported missing now are presumed dead.

Previously reported missing on war service and now presumed dead as of Sept. 3, is Lieut. (S.) Stuart Clarke Lane, whose next-of-kin is his father, Mr. A. Lane, of 703 Rogers Building, Granville St., Vancouver.

Previously reported missing on active service and now presumed dead as of last Jan. 1 is Lieut. Armour Stockdale Reed, whose next-of-kin is his wife, Mrs. Eileen Shannan Bull of London, Eng.

R.C.A.F.

OTTAWA, Sept. 8.—(CP)—The R.C.A.F. reported last night in its 674th casualty list of the war, containing 14 names, that one man has been killed on active service overseas, another has died from natural causes overseas and three others are missing on active service after air operations.

The list also reported two men previously reported missing on active service and now reported prisoners of war in Germany and one man previously missing on active service and now reported a prisoner of war, also in Germany.

In Canada, three men were listed as killed on active service, another as killed accidentally and two others as seriously injured accidentally.

Crooked Carnival Wheel Is Seized, Owner Fined $275

AJAX, Ont., Sept. 8.—(CP)—Magistrate F. S. Ebbs yesterday fined Joseph Smith of Vancouver $275 and costs and confiscated a wheel-of-fortune and $109 in cash seized by police officers at a carnival near here last week. The fine was levied after officers told a court they found only one winner at a horse-racing wheel which paid off at 5-1—and the one winner, the officers said, worked for the carnival.

Building Equipment for the BIG JOB of VICTORY!

● Canadian General Electric is building a diversity of heavy electrical equipment needed for the big job of Victory . . . equipment to increase the nation's power supply, equipment to distribute and apply this power, equipment with a vital wartime purpose now — but with an equally great and important peacetime future.

From the busy workshops of C.G.E. are rolling mighty turbines and generators to develop electric power . . . massive transformers to keep this power flowing to mines and mills and munition plants, switchgear to control it, and powerful motors to harness it to the lathes and presses that produce the tools of war.

This is big equipment which, while available only for war duty now, is destined to play a valuable part in enriching life for all Canadians in the great days that will follow Victory!

The Bulletin's SPORT SHOW by Hal Dean

SPORTS EDITOR

THE chilly and much too ambitious wind of Labor Day was a tough break not only for the Inter-Service Sports Council of Edmonton, sponsors of the track and field meet, but also for local citizens. A great many stayed away from Clarke Stadium and accordingly missed having a gander at the finest array of athletic talent ever to perform in this city.

Cpl. Torchy Peden and some of his bicycle accomplishments are of course almost household words, but there were also other contestants, leaders in their respective fields of athletic endeavor and not the least of these was Cpl. Joe Haley of Trail, B.C.

Haley was entered from No. 2 Wireless School of Calgary, wiley ners of team honors with a total of 44 points, 25 more than their nearest competitors, Penhold R.A.F. In taking the high jump the Trail airman eased over the bar at an even six feet, the highest mark ever recorded here.

JUMPED 6 FEET, 5 INCHES

HALEY has twice cleared six feet, five inches and if you don't believe that's something just mark off that height on your boy friend's new living room wallpaper and then step back and get an eyeful. Joe made it in competition at Nelson and he repeated at Vernon.

Cpl. Haley won in the British Empire Games trials at Hamilton and at the subsequent Empire meet in London, Eng., in 1934 tied with Thacker of South Africa for first place at 6 feet, 3 inches. Of the 48 jumpers who competed in the Olympics at Berlin in 1936, 10 reached the final and Haley was one of them. He placed either seventh or eighth and the height was 6 feet, 4½ inches. And for the record his own height is 6 feet, 2 inches and he weighs close to 190 pounds.

Torchy Peden, by the way was the coach of the track team which went to Berlin that year and Haley was one of his pupils. Now Haley is coach of the No. 2 Wireless School team and Cpl. Tommy Steele, Edmonton athlete who copped off three firsts on Monday is one of his proteges.

HERE AND THERE . . .

THERE is just a possibility that on Saturday fastball fans in this city may have the privilege of viewing the pitching of Helen Nicol, leading chucker in the All-American girls' circuit. Helen and her battery-mate, both former Army and Navy Pals, are expected to return late this week and the two may work for their old team in the game against the Vancouver girls.

Pats were originally supposed to play on Friday with the Walk-Rites billed for Saturday, but the dates may be switched. The contemplated advance to Friday may also suit the new city champions better, for they are now scheduled to meet Calgary Chinooks in the deciding game in the Alberta final on Sunday.

Nellie McClung, (yes, that's the same alright, but this is the granddaughter), established something of an endurance record on Sunday last in the current tournament over at Garneau Tennis Club by playing nine sets consisting of 94 games.

In the event of Currie Barracks winning the current Foothills Intermediate ball League playoff with Navy, the final game of which is slated for tonight, the Calgary soldier-airman combination will play an inter-city title series with U.S. Army Yanks at Renfrew Park. Tentative arrangements call for the first game on Friday with the second Sunday.

Known as "Dead Heat Horse"

Domino Was a Great Miler, But Never Won a Longer Race

By NED BROWN

NEW YORK, Sept. 8—Domino, famous as "the dead heat horse" because of memorable matches with Dobbins and Henry of Navarre, was the fastest miler of his time.

The son of Himyar-Mannie Gray by Enquirer succeeded Salvator as the most popular runner in America.

Domino was unbeaten in nine starts as a 2-year-old, earned $170,790, a mark which stood for nearly 40 years. It remained for Top Flight, a filly with earnings of $219,000 in 1935, to surpass Domino's record. That still is the juvenile record.

When Domino was retired in 1895, only lisinglass, a British thoroughbred, exceeded his total winnings of $193,350.

Domino won 19 of 25 races in three years, was second twice, third once and three unplaced.

Domino never lost at a mile or less; never won at more, aside from the dead heat with Henry of Navarre at a mile and one-eighth, which in terms of the turf is a victory for both.

Although thoroughly game, Domino was palpably a non-stayer.

As a sire, Domino founded a line that practically dominated American racing for years.

Bred in Kentucky by Maj. B. G. Thomas, Domino was marked by a star on his forehead and a white snip on his nose. Described as black, he was of that peculiar color which, when the light was bright, showed him to be a dark chestnut.

FAMOUS DEAD HEATS

Domino had proven Dobbins' master as a 2-year-old, having beaten him at even weights in the Great American, Great Trial and the Futurity. Dissatisfied with the result of the Futurity, in which his colt ran third, Richard Croker, Democratic boss of New York, challenged for a match over the same distance for $10,000 a side.

James R. and Foxhall P. Keene accepted, and the race was run at Coney Island two days after the Futurity. Each carried 118 pounds.

They spurted the last furlong, running like one colt, passed the post inseparably locked in a dead heat. The time for six furlongs was 1:12 2-5.

Domino was a thoroughly game colt, but palpably a non-stayer.

Domino broke even in clashes with Henry of Navarre, beating him and Sysonby in the Withers Stakes in his first start as a 3-year-old; dead-heating in their match race and losing to him in the Grand Special at Morris Park, the last two at nine furlongs.

Weights in the match race were 122 pounds.

Riley Grannan, bookmaker, offered 20 to 11 on Domino.

When Henry of Navarre came with a rush, Domino responded, but he ran on heart alone, and they swept across the finish in a dead heat in 1:53⅕.

Domino ran unplaced in the American Derby at a mile and a half.

Domino's stamina always had been doubted by turfmen, but at four James R. Keene started him in the Suburban Handicap at a mile and a quarter. He went to the post the favorite at 1 to 2; ran well for a mile, as usual.

Sir Walter passed him, and Lazzarone came with a great rush to beat Sir Walter a length.

"I never saw a horse stop like old Domino," said Jockey Fred Taral.

"Nor I," returned Sam Doggett, who was astride Sir Walter. "I thought you held me safe."

"When you brought Sir Walter up beside me," explained Taral, "old Domino just gave a big grunt. He just couldn't last the distance."

TOP SIRE MODERN TIMES

A bad foot prompted Domino's retirement in the autumn of 1895.

Domino's career as a sire, while brief, was immediate and immense. No other sire of modern times made so proud an impression in the great sweepstakes for 2 and 3-year-olds.

Among Domino's direct descendants are Commando, Petter Pan, Colin, Cap and Bells, Pennant, Luke McLuke, Black Toney and scores of others famous in their own right.

Domino left an indelible imprint on American racing.

Jack Pomfret Paces Airmen With 4 Hits

NO. 3 "M" DEPOT took a one-game lead in the Senior Men's Fastball League three-of-five title series Tuesday night when they handed Centrals a 7-0 shutout at Kingsway Park.

Johnny Fulthorp was in good form and held the losers to four scattered hits, struck out 11 of the 32 batters he face him and only walked three.

"Sunny" Wheatfield, a replacement of Al Jarvis who has returned to Minneaulis, went the distance for Centrals and allowed nine safeties.

Jam Pomfret had a perfect night at the plate, getting four for four, one of which was a triple to centre field in the eighth inning.

The Airmen took the lead in the first frame when George Wetzstein walked, made third on an error as Fulthorp got on base and was belted in by Pomfret. They coasted to an easy win after that, adding four in the fifth and two in each of the sixth and eighth session.

In the fourth, Johnny Morrison made first an error, went to third on a single to right filed by Norm LaCree and came in on an error by third sacker Maurice Gogek when the ball was thrown in from right field. LaCree went to second on the error, remained there while Wetzstein got on on a bunt and then scored on another error that enabled Fulthorp to reach second and Wetzstein third.

The star chucker and Wetzstein were batted in by a double to centre field by Pomfret to account for the third and fourth runs of the inning and to make the count 5-0.

Harry Kermode increased the score in the fifth when he received a free ticket to first, advanced on a wild pitch and was driven in by Lac Cree who singled to right field. Pomfret then finished off the counting by rounding the bases on a triple and a fielder's choice.

Luke Appling Maintains Lead Over Wakefield

CHICAGO, Sept. 8—(AP)—Luke Appling, veteran shortstop of Chicago White Sox, continues to set the pace for his rookie rival, Dick Wakefield of Detroit Tigers, in their strictly Yankee duel for 1943 American league batting honors.

Figures show Appling with a mark of .328. This was 11 points better than the .317 standing of Wakefield.

The only other .300 hitter was Chicago's Guy Curtright with .305.

Other leaders were Bill Dickey, New York, .291; Oris Hockett, Cleveland, .290; Peter Fox, Boston, .289; Lou Boudreau, Cleveland, .285; George Case, Washington, and Rudy York, Detroit, each .284.

Hal Dean of the Edmonton Bulletin says Ken McAuley, former Edmonton Junior hockey player may turn up in the New York Rangers nets next winter. McAuley has been discharged from the Navy . . . Will Pedlar, Vancouver tennis star, has landed in India with the R.C.A.F. . . . Hamilton Wildcats have a pair of gridspeedballs in Joe Krol and Doug Smith, last year with Kitchener-Waterloo Panthers. Benefit Baseball Game

Picking Pitches All-Stars To 7-3 Victory Over Yanks

NEWTON PICKING held the Yanks to three scattered hits and the All-Stars registered a 7-3 triumph in Tuesday night's benefit baseball fixture at Renfrew Park. The game was sponsored by the American Women's Service Club and approximately $500 was realized.

The Hornet pitcher struck out nine and the two runs scored against him in the first frame were unearned, a pair of walks being mixed up with a couple of errors, a stolen base and a passed ball.

Pat Priest was hit rather freely, but none of the four counters which the All-Stars collected in the opening session were earned. Priest issued three passes on balls, all in the initial stanza and an error and a wild pitch did the rest of the damage. Walter pitched the last three innings, yielding a trio of singles.

STARTED BY LA VOLD

Morey La Vold started off the game with a walk and Dan Heckler followed suit before into right field sending the Arrow shortstop to third. Ken McAuley walked to fill the bases and when the Yanks second sacker let Jim Kelly's ground ball go through two runs came in.

McAuley came in on a wild pitch and Kelly followed when Fred Lupul lifted a high one to Manuel Dorsky in centre field, which the Yank took care of but was unable to stop the runner coming in from third. Stevenson went out Miller to Johnson and Tommy Brant also walked, but Burns was thrown out at first, Johnson to Priest.

The Army got two runs back in their half of the same inning. Walter Misosky got a life when Burns let his hot one get away and Lefty Johnson walked. Misosky and Johnson then worked a double steal. Misosky later came in on a passed ball and Harley Miller also drew a walk. Baldwin hit to third and Johnson was trapped, Brant to Stevenson. Picking struck out both Dorsky and Gray.

FIVE SUCCESSIVE HITS

The All-Stars jumped on Priest for five successive hits in the fifth La Vold and Hackler both singled to centre and McAuley bunted safely toward third to fill the bases. Two runs came in on Jim Kelly's drive to right field and McAuley scored on Fred Lupul's single to centre, Kelly being thrown out at second—Dorsky to Lollo to Priest.

Priest then struck out Stevenson and Brant filed out o Misosky in left field.

Nelson went in to pitch in the sixth and no further runs resulted. La Vold came through with his third successive hit in the sixth and Brant and Ralph Morgan both singled in the eighth.

ARMY'S FINAL RUN

The Yanks collected a singleton in the fifth. Misosky started out with a Texas-leaguer into centre, but was forced at second by Johnson, who hit to Brant and McAuley took the throw. Harley Miller and Baldwin then walked and Johnson scored following Dorsky's fly to left field. Gray was a strike-out victim.

Harley Miller drove a triple to deep left in the seventh, but died on third. Dorsky reached first on shirt's error in the eighth, but was forced at second, Picking to La Vold. Lollo hit into a double play McAuley to La Vold to Morgan.

Umpire Dickey called the game at the end of the eighth on account of darkness.

Mel Ott Popular In War Bond Loop

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Mel Ott, manager of New York Giants, was the most popular player in the Gotham War Bond Baseball League which closed Tuesday after realizing $947,300.060 in the sale of the securities.

The sum does not include the value of the 18,363 bonds purchased by fans in order to vote nor does it include the $77,000.000 raised by Brooklyn Dodgers in a series of Long Island speaking tours prior to the opening of the league early this summer.

Each bond gave the purchaser permission to vote for a player and Ott gathered 4,500 votes. Dixie Walker of the Dodgers was second with 3,949.

The Saar is the most densely populated area in Europe, having more than 1000 persons per square mile.

Leaders Well Satisfied

Major League Attendance Shows Only Slight Decrease

NEW YORK, Sept. 8—(AP)—Attendance in the major leagues is running six to eight per cent behind last year's figures, which reached a total of approximately 9,000,000 paid admissions, but baseball's leaders said Tuesday that they are well satisfied with the 1943 turnout of fans.

The American League, President William Harridge estimated, is about six per cent under 1942 when it drew 4,415,922 for what Harridge termed a splendid year.

"We are having what he believe to be a remarkable season through a trying war period," Harridge commented, "despite unprecedented bad weather in the early season when the entire first trip of the eastern clubs into the west was practically washed out. We had 16 postponements in one week in May."

The National League, which drew 4,077,183 last year, is running around eight per cent behind, president Ford Frick said, but explained that "this is really better than I thought we would be able to do when we were making plans for the 1943 season."

In the National League the sharpest decline has been at the home games of the New York and Brooklyn clubs, each of which is approximately 300,000 under last year when the Dodgers drew more than 1,000,000 paying customers and the Giants about 850,000. Cincinnati also is down, but the Reds have a chance to make up some ground with a long home stay this month and a club which has shown improvement since midseason.

Frick said the St. Louis Cardinals, Philadelphia Phillies, Chicago Cubs and Pittsburgh Pirates all have shown increases over last year's attendance and that the Boston Braves are holding about level.

In the American League, Washington, Chicago and Philadelphia have registered increases. Detroit is about even, and the other four clubs, the New York Yankees, Boston, St. Louis and Cleveland, are running behind.

No Service Teams In Vancouver Island Hockey

VICTORIA, Sept. 8.—(CP) — No service teams will play senior hockey on Vancouver Island this season, military authorities said yesterday.

"This decision has been reached chiefly because of the difficulty of keeping the men on the teams available at all times, when required for training and playing," said a letter to the Victoria Times signed by Maj. Gen. A. E. Potts. "It has been found that this interfered seriously with their primary duties as sailors, soldiers and airmen.

"An effort is being made to organize a purely service league on a ship, regimental or group basis."

Last year's Island League consisted of five teams—Army, Navy and Air Force and the Victoria Machinery and Shipbuilding concern, all local teams, and the Nanaimo Clippers. The Army team reached the Allan Cup finals against Ottawa Commandos.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 8.—(CP)—Jim Edmunds, of Medicine Hat, won the Manitoba Small Bore Rifle Association championship here Monday with a score of 768. He scored successes in the 50-yard individual match, 50-yard re-entry match and 100-yard re-entry match.

Vancouver Softball Team To Play Walk-Rites, Pats

On their way east to compete in the world amateur softball tournament at Detroit, Dick Newall and his Western Mutual girls' club from Vancouver will stop over in the city for two exhibition games to be played at Kingsway Park Friday and Saturday nights.

They will play one game with Murray Saidman's Walk-Rites, western Canadian champions and winners of the 1942 City Girls' Fastball League, and one with Clare Hollingsworth's Army and Navy Pats, runnersup in the circuit.

Mutuals, British Columbia title holders, boast of having one of the best teams on the Pacific coast and have an outstanding lineup of 13 players. Little Jean Melen, veteran Olive Dill and Grace Byers give the club what is said to be a practically unbeatable mound corps backed up by Dolly Moore behind the plate. They also have a tight infield of regulars including Vi Maddison at first, Grace Allman at second, Margaret Callaghan at third and Joyce Hurschman covering the shortstop territory.

The Vancouver softballers will not find it easy to beat either of the two top ranking city teams though. Walk-Rites, now in a 1-1 provincial title series deadlock with Calgary Chinooks have an outstanding pitching staff in Betty Carveth and Elsie Vaughan, aided by Minnie Wilson's catching. Beryl "Buzz" Westbrook and Jennie O'Donnell will undoubtedly give the far west hitters some stiff pitching to contend with when they play the Pats.

Newall's girls have been together for some years, having toured the west coast to San Francisco when they trimmed the famed Cherries, former coast champions, played in numerous provincial championships and taken on some of the best known women's outfits on the road.

The Mutuat team has been shooting for the American softball tournament for the past few seasons, but have previously been unable to make the long trip east. They started out early this year to make plans for this season's tourney at Detroit and feel they've built a team which should carry them to the semies and perhaps the finals in the U.S. city.

Montgomery-Jack Fight Postponed

NEW YORK, Sept. 8—(AP)—Promoter Mike Jacobs said Tuesday the 15-round bout between Bob Montgomery and Beau Jack with Montgomery's New York and Pennsylvania version of the lightweight title at stake has been postponed from next Friday night until Oct. 4.

An impacted wisdom tooth suffered by Montgomery and which has caused him to miss training was given as the reason.

TORONTO, Sept. 8.—(CP)—The Canadian Rugby Union decided at its annual meeting to stage this year's East-West final on the last Saturday in November. Well, boys, it seems certain those pick-off headaches will be with us again. If they swing the Grey Cup classic before the usual first or second Saturday in December it will be a miracle.

The O.R.F.U., of course, has scheduled for a sudden-death play-off Nov. 20 between its top two teams. The idea was that the O.R.F.U. champions would represent the East in the Dominion final the following Saturday, Nov. 27. The catch is that the Quebec Union is already talking of an entry for the Grey Cup play-offs and there's an outside chance Halifax may also challenge.

Baz O'Meara of the Montreal Star writes: "Something in the line of big-time rugby is shaping up around here again. The Quebec Union is likely to have an entrant in the Grey Cup playdowns. Bobby Hewitson, the C.R.U. secretary, is giving them an affable nod and when Bobby nods that's way everything is practically a "fait accompl." O'Meara lists a quantity of recognized Montreal grid talent, including Red Storey, Fred Davies, Glenn Brown, Teddy Edwards.

The Halifax situation is not nearly so definite. However a number of top-flight football stars are located in the Maritimes—enough for a really good football team—and Halifax sportsmen already are unofficially talking of the possibility of a Grey Cup challenge.

Of course, the Grey Cup final would still be possible Nov. 27 by playing the O.R.U. final in mid-week, the winner to meet the winner of a Halifax-Montreal playoff Nov. 20 for the Eastern title. But that would mean three games in eight days for the O.R.F.U. champions.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8—The most memorable smile in ring history brought death to McCarty and cost Prof. Billy McCarney an estimated million dollars. McCarney, now 71 and a representative of a wartime precision tool company, speaking of the late Joe Jacobs said: "The month of September always makes me think of Luther McCarty, the greatest heavyweight who ever lived.

"It was in September, 1912, that I really plunged into the business of making my first million with McCarty. He was the most handsome, most beautifully-built and hardest-hitting heavyweight I ever saw—before or since. He had everything — this 20-year-old battler from Wild Horse Canyon, Neb.

This part-Indian, Irish heavyweight of the curly brown locks already had licked Jess Willard, according to McCarney, and he beat Jim Barry and Jim McFarland at Pittsburgh in that September of 1912.

CLAIMED HEAVY TITLE

THEN he went on to knock out Al Kaufmann, Jim Flynn, Al Palzer and outpoint Frank Moran, McCarney says. By virtue of these victories, McCarney, who had sole managerial rights to McCarty, was claiming the heavyweight championship because the then-champion, Negro Jack Johnson, was outside the United States to avoid contact with the Federal authorities.

As just another "Pat-boiler" bout, McCarney matched McCarty with Arthur Pelky, Canadian heavyweight champion, at Calgary, Alberta, on May 24, 1913. Before the bout, Red-coated Canadian police informed McCarney that "modified" Queensberry rules would govern the "boxing exhibition." Neither principal would be permitted to hit in the clinches, the police said.

McCarty and Pelky climbed into the ring shortly after noon. They fought in an indoor arena, with movable glass sections in the roof. As the bout opened, young McCarty hit Pelky with a straight right that knocked him into the ropes. He followed with a left hook that drove Pelky into a neutral corner. Pelky then fell forward, as if to enter a clinch. Remembering the modified rules about hitting in the clinches, McCarney yelled at McCarty: "Look out!"

KILLED IN CALGARY

AS Pelky moved into the clinch, McCarty turned his head sideways to smile at McCarney to notice that he understood perfectly. But, as he grinned sideways, Pelky threw a right to the jaw that broke McCarty's neck. He was pronounced dead at 1.13 p.m., in the first round.

"He fell backwards with his arms outstretched on the canvas," McCarney related. "And at the same time the sun, streaming down from certain openings in the movable windows, outlined him with a golden cross.

"I was crucified, too, by this sudden death of the greatest heavyweight who ever lived, and never approached making a million bucks, though I've handled hundreds of fighters since."

Spotlighting The Sport Girl

By SUSIE Q

Coming out of Brooklyn (of all places one might think of) is a story that profession baseball players are not playing as good ball as might be expected because the players are too sure of their jobs, and have let down, there being a seeming scarcity of new recruits in prospects in the country to the south of us.

On the other hand a letter from Chicago states that every girl in the new league there is playing her best with a view of holding her place because there seems to be an avalanche of prospects desirous of taking any possible vacancies.

With a Vancouver softball girls team appearing in Edmonton this week to play against our fastball ladies, and their intention of proceeding east to "take" the best that Toronto can offer and then on to the Detroit national tournament. It costs one hundred dollars entry fee to the latter and just a few other hundreds for travelling expenses, so that Vancouver, who have played and beaten some of the best teams of the American northwest, must have some good opinions as to their own qualifications. They had some work to win over the coast local opposition.

Incidentally, there must be some money in softball, because a girls' game this week in Toronto gathered in nearly four hundred dollars for British relief funds.

Trout Gains 17th Victory

Tigers Beat Chicago Twice To Remain in Fourth Place

DETROIT, Sept. 8—(AP)—Detroit Tigers beat off a challenge of Chicago White Sox for the American League's fourth place yesterday by sweeping a double-header, 5-0 and 6-5, before a slim crowd of 5,962 in a bill postponed from Monday's holiday program. It was the day's only major league action.

Paul (Dizzy) Trout gained his 17th victory and fifth shutout in the opener by scattering seven hits. In the nightcap Virgil Trucks came in as Detroit's fourth pitcher to stamp out Chicago's ninth-inning rally that produced three runs and put the potential winning run on second base.

The big ninth likewise included the bouncing of Manager Steve O'Neill of the Tigers for the first time this season. O'Neill was thumbed from the premises by Umpire Bill McGowan in a protest over Dick Hodgin's theft of third base.

Trout was backed up by a 10-hit attack off lefty Edgar Smith, that included homers by Rudy York and Pinky Higgins. It was York's 31st of the year.

In the nightcap the sox spotted Orval Grove a two-run lead as Lefty Hal Newhouser developed a streak of wildness, but Detroit got there in the third on a rally topped by Jimmy Bloodworth's double. Timely hits by Higgins and Ned Harris drove in three more in the fourth.

Johnny Gorsica, who got credit for his third victory, breezed along until the ninth when Hal White and then Trucks were rushed in from the bullpen. Hodgin's single and an error produced two runs, and another scored on Joe Kuhel's infield out. Trucks then got Skeeter Webb on a fly ball to end the game.

JERSEY CITY, Sept. 8—(AP)—Newark stretched its winning streak to six straight yesterday by taking its third game in a row from Jersey City, 2-1, in the first game of an International League doubleheader. The second game was postponed in the second inning, due to weather conditions.

Frank Hiller scattered eight Little Giant hits effectively to win over Bob Wells in a hurling duel and register his 10th victory of the season in the game that was played.

Outstanding Jamaican

Arthur Wint Not to Seek Recognition of 440 Record

BRANDON, Man., Sept. 8—(CP)—LAC. Arthur Wint, 23-year-old Jamaican, now a member of the R.C.A.F., who bettered the native Canadian 440-yard track record by half a second here Monday, will not seek recognition for the performance.

Officials of the Brandon District Services Association, who sponsored the track and field events, said the dusky runner was clocked on two watches at 48.4 seconds compared with the native record of 48.9 held by Johnny Loaring of Windsor, Ont.

LAC. Wint was assisted by a strong following wind in his sprint over the exhibition ground oval here. There was no measurement made of the track which had been recognized as 440 yards for years.

Meanwhile record hooks disclosed that A. C. Brown of the Oxford-Cambridge track team, bettered LAC. Wint's time by three-tenths of a second at Montreal in 1937, giving Brown the open record of 48.1 seconds.

LAC. Wint has been taking part in track events for 12 years, having had an impressive inter-school record in Hamilton, Jamaica, his home town.

In 1938, he participated in the Central American Olympics, winning the half mile in 1.56.3 for a Central American record. In 1941 he lost a 440-yard race by inches in an international meet at Kingston. The winner's time then was 48.8. Last year he won the half mile and the broad jump at a Jamaica-Trinidad meet.

He enlisted in the R.C.A.F. last October, completed elementary training as a pilot at Davidson, Sask., and arrived at the No. 12 Service Flying Training School here last week.

School Board Hears Protest By Delegation

A delegation of nearly 20 people, representing the Forest Heights Community League, appeared before the school board Tuesday night to protest the board's decision to suspend plans for the building of a new school at Forest Heights.

At a previous meeting the Edmonton school board decided to suspend plans for the construction of the school on the grounds that tenders submitted were in excess of the amount the board was willing to pay for the construction of the school.

TWO ALTERNATIVES

The board offered the residents of Forest Heights their choice of two alternatives, namely, that the pupils in grades one and two be put on a shift basis or that the grade six pupils be sent to the Riverdale school where there was a vacant room to accommodate them.

At a special meeting of the Forest Heights Community League it was unanimously decided to reject both proposals, and to continue to fight for a new school on the grounds that neither proposal would prove satisfactory.

W. Bullock, acting as spokesman for the delegation, asked the school board to consider the offer of another contractor, who proposes to build a three-roomed school at an estimated cost, considerably lower than the tenders first submitted to the board. Mr. Bullock stated, that he was fully aware of the difficulties faced in construction work of any kind but he felt the need of a new school in the Forest Heights district was essential.

Chairman of the board informed the delegation that the trustees sympathized fully with the need for the school and have been endeavoring to work out some sort of plan that would be satisfactory.

TRANSPORT PROBLEM

Mr. Bullock stated that the objection of the residents to sending the grade six pupils to Riverdale school was that there was no guarantee of transportation for the children, as the bus operating at the present time in that district was taxed beyond capacity and the children would be faced with a distance of three or more miles to get to the school. The delegation felt also that the shift basis for the other children would be inadequate.

The school board agreed to consider the plans proposed by the contractor the delegation mentioned, if they would arrange to have his plans submitted to the board. The board gave the delegation their assurance that the plans would be carefully studied and submitted to the city architect for approval.

Westmount United church appealed to the school board for permission to use either the Westmount or the Westglen school to hold their church services as they have been compelled to sell their present premises. The period for which they would require to occupy the school would be from 10:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. on Sundays. Permission was granted by the board.

The board received a letter of thanks from the Canadian Girl Guide Association for the use of the North Edmonton school grounds for the day camp held in August.

BUSINESS enriches the NATION and YOU

Your Savings Create New Wealth Which You Share

YOUR surplus funds in bank deposits, however small, contribute to the working capital that is constantly enriching your life. Business uses these savings to give Canadians a standard of living enviably high among the nations of the world.

Through business enterprises, this capital provides costly research laboratories to search out, test and perfect new products and improvements. These dispel the drudgery of many chores; they add ease, comfort and entertainment to the conditions under which you live.

It is this capital that builds new factories, installs improved machinery and hires more people to turn out better goods at less cost to you. Volume production, made possible by capital, lowers prices even while increasing wages.

Without capital, these things could not be. The new goods produced by business are the real wealth of the nation—wealth in which you share as you enjoy the products that working capital puts within your reach.

Alberta Shows Overall Surplus in Last Fiscal Year

Total on Income Account Revenue is $27,961,197; Liquor Profits $4,989,767

Provincial revenues for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1943, were $27,961,197, some $3,816,924 more than was estimated, while expenditures for the period totalled $21,588,134, or $1,056,689 lower than was estimated, according to the public accounts for the year under review, released Wednesday by Hon. Solon E. Low, provincial treasurer.

These figures (which do not include operations of Alberta Government Telephones) show a surplus on income account of $6,373,063, $4,873,613 higher than the estimated surplus of $1,499,450.

Net capital expenditures of $1,494,785 left an over-all surplus on income and capital accounts of $4,878,277.

Despite shortage of stocks and stringent rationing, liquor profits for the year ended March 31 were $4,989,767, or $2,089,767 higher than estimated profits of $2,900,000.

After payment of $391,840 for redeemed treasury certificates, a treasury bill of $107,250, accounts payable and other items, surplus funds at March 31 stood at $4,609,137. The surplus is accounted for by an increase of cash on hand of $2,376,685, and purchases of bonds and debentures as investments of $2,232,452.

GOVERNMENT PHONES

Operating surplus of Alberta Government Telephones, before providing for debt charges, depreciation or capital losses, was $2,201,871 for the year. This is an increase of $226,341 over the $1,775,529 surplus for the year ended March 31, 1942.

Revenues on income account were derived as follows: dominion subsidies, $1,801,631; taxes, $9,682,936; licenses, $3,236,257; fees, $3,850,924; fines and penalties, $110,787; profits from trading activities, $5,000,628; miscellaneous, $76,801; refunds of expenditure, $3,111,179, and from revenue-producing assets, $1,090,671. Income account revenues were $3,816,924 higher than were estimated.

Expenditures on income account, which totalled $21,588,134, included $3,840,228 for debt charges; $3,268,662 for educational purposes; $1,686,360 for highways, bridges and ferries, and $1,000,000 for the post-war reconstruction fund.

Sessional indemnities for the year amounted to $116,908, administration of the Alberta Elections Act, $17,048. These figures, along with other totals, bring total expenditures under legislation to $214,945.

TREASURY BRANCHES

Treasury branch expenditures, $331,372, were $24,252 higher than estimated. The Highway Traffic Board was paid $58,374, and the Social Credit Board, $22,004. Total general government expenses were $2,393,017.

Administration of justice in the province cost $762,095 in the year, of which $268,325 was paid to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. Grants to public welfare, institutions, and charity totalled $1,190,737.

Capital expenditures for the year amounted to $2,538,231, while capital receipts stood at $1,043,445, leaving a net capital expenditure of $1,494,785.

CAPITAL EXPENSES

Included in capital expenses were $1,142,170 for highways and bridges; $27,545 for hospitalization and medical services for incurables; $34,750 to the University of Alberta Hospital Board; $22,442 to the university, and $10,000 to the Special Areas Board.

The net funded and unfunded debt of the province as at March 31 amounted to $140,794,159, compared with $141,455,584 as at March 31, 1942, a net decrease of $661,225. Net funded debt stood at $140,534,443, while the unfunded debt was $259,715. Sinking funds, at the year-end, totalled $15,358,060, higher by $760,075 than at the end of the 1942 fiscal year. The increase was due to interest earnings.

The report was compiled by C. K. Huckvale, provincial auditor.

Up to the end of 1942, $337,543 was paid in consumer bonuses to persons buying Alberta-made goods through transfer vouchers issued at government treasury branches, Premier Ernest Manning announced in addition of the bonus in a reorganization of the treasury branch system last week-end.

Reports Surplus

Hon. Solon E. Low, provincial treasurer and minister of education, who released public accounts for the year ended March 31, 1943, Wednesday. The accounts show a surplus on income account of $6,373,063..

Chinese Asking Assistance in Fight for Life

In one of his great wartime speeches, Winston Churchill said: "China's fight is the United Nation's fight. Great Britain is determined to give China every material, moral and spiritual help in our power."

The help which can be given China in a military sense depends on decisions of Allied war traffic —on the way the war develops, and how campaigns go, and what strategies are adopted.

But through the Chinese War Relief Fund, Canadians have the opportunity to give material, moral and spiritual help to the gallant, u n e x plaining Chinese people. Canadian dollars can provide food, clothing, medical and hospital supplies. Some of these things, of small bulk and great importance, will be flown to China by bomber through arrangement between Britain and China.

Frost Is Reported; Damages Gardens

The first official reading of frost was registered Tuesday night when the thermometer sank to 32 degrees. This was the coldest night so far this season and frost was reported from many parts of the city.

Some damage was done to gardens as vines and tender flowers suffered from the frost. In the low-lying sections of the city the frost was more severe and reports from these areas indicate fairly extensive damage to gardens and flowers.

The fair weather of the last two days will continue according to the forecast of "fair and cool."

A-R-O-U-N-D THE TOWN

R. S. Morris, administrator of construction products for the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, Ottawa, will arrive in Edmonton from Vancouver on Sept. 10.

City Commissioner R. J. Gibb left Tuesday for Calgary to attend a meeting of the Alberta reconstruction committee.

Col. F. D. St. John, Peachland, B.C., arrived in Edmonton Wednesday to address a luncheon meeting of the Women's Canadian Club to be held at the Macdonald hotel.

Reg. T. Rose, executive secretary Edmonton Chamber of Commerce, will be the guest speaker at the regular monthly meeting of the Edmonton Council No. 1184, Knights of Columbus, to be held in the club house on Thursday, Sept. 9, at 8 p.m. "Edmonton, Boom Town—Plus" will be his topic.

CSM. Jocelyn Foster, C.W.A.C., daughter of Maj. Gen. W. W. Foster, D.S.O., special commissioner for Canadian projects in the North West Territories, arrived from an Eastern Canadian port Wednesday on a visit. She is a guest at the Macdonald hotel.

Recent enlistments at No. 3 Recruiting Centre, R.C.A.F., Edmonton, include the following local men: R. G. Hale, G. E. Hay, H. L. Irving, G. W. McLeod and B. A. Wingblade, who enlisted as AC2's. In the R.C.A.F. (W.D.) Barbara E. Stephens of Edmonton enlisted. From nearby points: F. J. Tanton, Edson; G. J. Chorneyoky, High Prairie, F. A. F. Koetke, Holden, and H. G. Smith, Wainwright, joined up, and Cecilia J. Caverhill, Lacombe and Doy H. Atwood, Winfield, joined the "WD's".

Election of officers and preparation of the schedule for the season were the highlights of the annual meeting of the Monday Nite Mixed Bowling League, held recently. "Hec" Turvey was re-elected president, Jim Rutherford vice-president and Mrs. Mamie McNabb secretary-treasurer. Things are shaping up for a strong 16-team league with the season opening Monday, Sept. 20. Games will commence at 8.45 p.m. Team captains may obtain rules and regulations from the secretary.

Youths and others who tore apart shocks, damaging and destroying field crops in the city's outskirts and surrounding districts, were reported to police authorities Wednesday by Thomas Housley, city weeds inspector, following complaints made to him by residents. It is a case of wilful damage and needless destruction said authorities, who stated that prosecutions will follow unless the practice is stopped. Mr. Housley said that stooks had been reportedly pulled apart and the twine broken about the sheaves.

Three thousand men are urgently needed to fill essential jobs in Edmonton and district, according to a statement issued Wednesday by A. O. MacLachlan, assistant manager of the local Selective Service office. The Selective Service is making another appeal to all men who are not at present doing essential work, to transfer to priority jobs. The three thousand men are needed for construction jobs, packing plants, industries, and to work in mines and do other essential work. Mr. MacLachlan said that the demand for laborers is far greater than the supply and the Selective Service is making this appeal in an effort to find the men to fill these three thousand jobs.

Edmonton stores were not observing the usual half holiday Wednesday afternoon because of the full holiday on Monday Labor Day. It has been customary for the stores to stay open on Wednesday afternoon during the summer months when the staffs have received a holiday on another day of the week.

A potato that looked like a model airplane was dug up Tuesday by Mr. E. Arial at his garden at 11th street. The long the potato tapered off to a tail at one end and was rounded into a snub nose at the other. A root growing from the snub end, made a propeller and two small projections grew each side to form wings. Two humps on the bottom looked like landing gear.

Sgt. Maj. Alex Riddell, head of the city police traffic department said Wednesday that the training given to members of the Edmonton schoolboys' traffic squad "is paying dividends." Dennis Winslow is one of the patrol members, was one of the main witnesses in police court Tuesday and his evidence assisted police in obtaining a conviction against a city motorist on a dangerous driving count. The boys have assisted the police in many ways, directing traffic during recreation periods when many children are on city streets and giving evidence in court," Sgt. Maj. Riddell stated. The patrol was started by the Edmonton branch of the Alberta Motor association. Several city policemen have coached the boys in traffic laws and giving evidence.

Health Officer Concerned Over New "Dip" Cases

Concern in the increase in the number of diphtheria cases in the city was expressed Wednesday by Dr. G. M. Little, medical health officer, who appealed to all citizens who have not been inoculated against the disease to seek immunization immediately.

Seven cases of the disease and six carriers have been reported, with three cases and three carriers being reported during the last few days.

He said that all cases are contacts with the original one reported, and all had failed to seek immunization.

He said that inoculations would be given free at the civic block between 2 and 4 p.m. daily except Saturday when the clinic will be open between 9:30 and 11:30 a.m.

He said that more than 100 adults and children had been inoculated during the two days immediately following the appeal issued last week to all who had not been immunized against the disease. "This was encouraging," Dr. Little stated. "But there are a great many who have not done the necessary precaution against diphtheria who should do so at once."

The following is the medical health report for the week ending Sept. 4:

	This Week	Last Week
Chickenpox	1	9
Diphtheria	3	1

Vancouver Author Issues New Book

Robert E. Swanson, author of the new book of verse, entitled "Rhymes of a Western Logger," was here recently making arrangements for distribution of his work.

"Rhymes of a Western Logger," contains a selection of verses depicting the lives and tribulations of the lumberjacks.

Mr. Swanson knows his loggers. He has been in the game himself, though he is now a government inspector of railways. With words that are typical of logging camps he describes the work and play hours of the loggers.

"The Vanishing Hosts," will appeal to those who deplore the devastation that has come to the forests in the wake of the loggers.

In his "L'Envoi," Mr. Swanson aptly describes all loggers, "True sons of nature's solitude and bush."

Four illustrations of typical logging scenes are included in this well-printed book of rhymes.

A previous publication by this author, "Rhymes of a Western Rambler," was issued last year.

2,000,000 Indians Aiding War Effort!

More than 2,000,000 Indians have voluntarily joined the British Army, and Indian industry is making a tremendous cont'ibution to the United Nations' war effort, Lt.-Col. F. O. St. John, D.S.O., M.C., Peachland, B.C., stated in an interview here Wednesday.

He arrived in Edmonton Tuesday evening and addressed a meeting of the Women's Canadian Club at the Macdonald hotel Wednesday at noon, speaking on "India, Its Life and Conditions." He is making a tour of Canada under the auspices of the Association of Canadian Clubs, and last year addressed 57 meetings between Vancouver and Halifax.

A veteran of the Great War of 1914-18 and an officer of the British Army he spent 25 years in India. He was wounded three times in the Great War, and also suffered from enemy gas attacks. He served in France, Gallipoli, Africa and the Middle East.

He said that the Indian question presented a very complex problem as there were 574 states in the country, with the people speaking 2,000 dialects and languages, while the caste system there was practically impregnable.

This City Leads In New Buildings

Edmonton led all cities in Canada for the amount of building contracts reported to Maclean Building Reports, Ltd., according to a report issued Wednesday from Toronto. Total construction reported for the month was $23,865,000, which was $7,905,900 lower than the construction work undertaken during the same month last year.

Of this amount $6,500,000 was allocated to Edmonton and Namao for the extension of the city airport and the construction of a new airport at Namao.

For the eight months period ended Aug. 31, 1943, the volume of construction reported was $142,159,000, a decline of $36,652,800 from the total of $198,811,800 reported for the first eight months of 1942.

THE QUESTION

What day stands out as the most important in your life?

THE ANSWERS

H. D. CARRIGAN, civil servant: "Thirteen has always been my lucky number. I arrived in Alberta on the 13th of the month, thirteen years ago. I always considered that day the most important in my life."

ELLEN LYMBURNER, Clerk: Most important day in my life was the day I became a stenographer. That day I learned all about the weaknesses of men!"

IRENE TAIT, stenographer: "The day I remember the most was the day I got my first pay check. It wasn't much, and it didn't last very long, but was it a thrill to go out and buy things with my very own money!

Canadian Corps Group Starting Season's Agenda

Two hundred members and guests of the Canadian Corps Association attended the monthly meeting held in the Masonic Temple Tuesday at 8 p.m. It was the first association meeting of the fall season.

Paddy Griffin of the Canadian Legion addressed the meeting and asked for the support of the association for a resolution the legion is making, asking that Edmonton be made a direct district for hospital, pensions and war veterans' allowances services. They are also asking for an immediate addition to the University of Alberta hospital soldiers' wing, which is filled to capacity at the present time, to provide space for men returning from the present war in need of hospitalization.

Another motion endorsed was a statement of protest drawn up Sunday by the Edmonton Ex-Servicemen's Rehabilitation committee, and introduced at the meeting by Jack Phizacklea. The statement protested the action of the Ottawa Board of Trade which requests that after the war is over, all war facilities, plants and equipment should be turned over to the manufacturer and producer for re-sale.

Any attempt to get control of or let-up on the full utilization of firms make a second profit on goods which have been paid for through taxation and which rightfully belong to the people, is strongly condemned in the statement. "This material rightfully belongs to the people of Canada and we demand that the same shall be used to rehabilitate the people as a whole and not used in this abortive manner to increase the profits of big business; with the ultimate result of placing the country in exactly the same position as after the last war."

The 2nd (Reserve) Battalion, Loyal Edmonton Regiment band under Sgt.-Maj. Graydon Tipp was in attendance and gave an enjoyable and much appreciated concert. Three pictures, "Battle for Tunisia" "Russia Strikes Back" and "Five Men of Australia", were presented.

The corps president paid special tribute to the late Major William Bury of Edmonton, who was killed in Sicily while in action with the Loyal Edmonton Regiment. Major Bury was the first casualty of this war of corps members.

"LAST POST"

Names of other members who have died since the last meeting were read by Mr. Phizacklea and the "Last Post" was sounded by Bugler Tom Wood, who is formerly of the navy this week. The names read included, Emanuel Pilkington, 8th Battalion; Joseph Robert, 2nd Divisional Engineers; Charles Moody Greenwood, 3rd Divisional Engineers; James D. Baker, 1st Divisional Signals; Major Lloyd, 2nd Battalion; Major J. B. Black, M.C., 1st Canadian Mounted Rifles.

Cyril Haines made a notice of motion of a change in by-laws in the constitution of the association, to provide that the immediate past president of the association be considered an officer of the association.

Norman Campbell told the meeting of a message received from Miss Jennie Morris, recalling a visit to the association five years ago. In this way Miss Morris is repeating her hospitality to the sons of veterans who served overseas with the Princess Patricia Canadian Light Infantry.

Now Overseas

LAC. Beatrice McMillan, R.C.A.F. (W.D.), daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell McMillan of 12827 122 street, who has arrived overseas, according to word received Wednesday by her parents. Born June 2, 1922, she enlisted in the R.C.A.F. Aug. 9, 1942 and trained at Rockcliffe and Trenton. She had attended Calder Public and Westglen High schools and later the Edmonton Normal school. She has two brothers serving in the R.C.A.F. overseas. Air-Gunner Lorne McMillan and Sgt.-Pilot Malcolm McMillan.

On top of the Italian headache now throbbing at the temples of German and Japanese war lords, a brand-new potential headache for the Axis came into being here Wednesday.

"Hitler's newest headache" is a recruiting milestone passed at No. 3 Recruiting centre here, when that unit accepted its 10,000th applicant to join Canada's fighting comrades of the skies.

Honor of being 10,000th to join the R.C.A.F. goes to William Roy Rankin, 18 years old, from Lacombe.

Sworn in by FO. A. L. Glenn, of the recruiting centre staff, AC2. Rankin wants to be a fighter pilot, and wants to get into action against the Japanese.

He was in the Air Cadets for two years, a member of the Lacombe squadron, where he held the rank of LAC. This air cadet training will now be pay dividends for AC2. Rankin, for he will find himself from 20 to 22 weeks ahead of others who have not taken cadet training, according to officers of air cadet squadrons here.

Rankin is a son of W. L. Rankin, Lacombe lumber dealer. He has already commenced training at No. 3 "M" depot here.

Police Are Seeking Regina Man Here

City police were asked late Tuesday night to locate Harold Henry William Young of Regina, Sask., but early Wednesday no information had been received as to his whereabouts, city police said.

No address of Mr. Young is known, it was reported in a telegram from his wife at Regina, who stated he was wanted urgently. He is a mechanic by trade.

Anyone knowing of his whereabouts are asked to communicate immediately with city police.

Hurt in Collision

Abel J. Hindle, 43 years old, of 8353 74 avenue, was in the General hospital Wednesday as the result of a collision between two cars at Clover Bar corner, late Tuesday. His injuries had not been ascertained Wednesday morning.

My Day

BY ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

AUCKLAND, N.Z.—We had our breakfast on the train yesterday morning and were allowed just time enough to leave our bags at the offices' club in the Grand Hotel, before we started at 8.35 to visit a U.S. Naval mobile hospital. This hospital has the kind of record which makes us proud of our efficiency, and so I am going to give you its history.

On June 9th, 1942, it left New York and on July 11th, 1942, it arrived in Wellington, New Zealand. On July 19th, 1942, it arrived at Auckland and on July 20th construction began. By August 16th they had completed more than 40 buildings to house 250 members of the staff and personnel and 380 patients, with all facilities for feeding. I should explain here that some buildings were brought with the unit but many of local construction have been added since. New Zealand women worked very hard, but even the doctors took a hammer in hand, because our men were going into Guadalcanal and this was the second hospital in this area and had to be ready to care for our wounded.

On August 20th, 366 severe battle casualties were received from the first naval battle for Guadalcanal. From that day to August 20th, 1943, this hospital has handled over 15,000 patients with only 18 deaths. The present normal capacity of the hospital is 1150, and in an emergency 1800. The administration also controls 1160 beds for convalescents. Some of the convalescents are housed at a race track under the spectator stands, and I know you would be as surprised as I was to see how comfortable these quarters are. I need hardly say that when a race is run the boys have a wonderful day.

Our party ate in the men's mess at noon yesterday and the food seemed to me very good. They put fresh milk in large pitchers on all tables. This country has good rich milk, which our boys seem to appreciate. I am giving you here a menu of one of the day's menus, because I know that every woman wonders whether her son, husband or sweetheart in a hospital is getting good food and enough of it.

Breakfast consisted of assorted fruits, assorted dry cereals, eggs, creamed ham on toast, hash brown potatoes and hot biscuits. For dinner they had beef and vegetable broth, grilled steak and gravy, creamed whipped potatoes, Spanish string beans, creamed cauliflower, vegetable salad, assorted pie, diced cheese and ice cream. The supper menu had pepper pot soup, braised lamb cubes with gravy, cranberry sauce, lima beans, chopped silver beets, wilted lettuce salad, jelly and whipped cream. You will agree, I am sure, that on such a diet and patient should put on weight.

At 12.30, a civic reception was held in Town Hall. These gatherings are very impressive and fill me with awe, for the mere presence of so many people is evidence that they are honoring not an individual but a country and its elected ruler. My part dwindles to nothing, except as I am able to emphasize what I say something of the good will which we at home feel towards all people of the United Nations with whom we sand side by side today.

In the afternoon we visited successively, a Red Cross service club, which has seen half a million men pass through its doors since it opened. The outstanding thing to me is how such a small number of American Red Cross personnel with New Zealand volunteers ever has done the work and met the needs of the great number of men in this area. Then we went to two rest homes, both run by Red Cross, where young flyers come to rest in great numbers, as well as men from other branches of the service. At 4.00 o'clock we went to a tea at Government House, the Auckland home of the Governor General, which he has donated as a club for the Allies. The last thing was a dance run by Red Cross in the evening, at which Artie Shaw's orchestra gave everyone much pleasure.

McKenney On Bridge

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY
America's Card Authority

When Charles H. Goren won the national men's pair championship with Charles J. Solomon, it gave him his second championship of the week. Goren and Solomon, both of Philadelphia, have played on teams of four on numerous occasions, but this was the first time they entered a major event as a pair, and it looks as though Philadelphia has another fine combination.

Goren showed his skill in dummy play in today's hand. On the opening lead dummy ducked, East won with the queen and Goren (South) dropped the jack. A low trump came back and was won by West's ten. West led the queen of hearts and held the trick. West now laid down the king of diamonds and dummy played the ace. A diamond was ruffed by Goren, the club ace was led and a low club ruffed by dummy's last trump. A third diamond round was ruffed by South and the ace of trumps was cashed, West discarding the jack of clubs. When Goren cashed the king of clubs, West was squeezed in the minor suits, having to discard from three spades and the master diamond. Dummy won the rest of the tricks, as Goren duly took the spade finesse.

Minute Make-Ups

In wartime, women, when out of uniform or working outfits, go in for Glamour and Beauty! It's the greatest-from drab "on duty" dress! And now, just as in the last war, American Beauty is the color of the hour: lush, dramatic, beautiful! One huge artificial American Beauty rose, worn as a "hat," is combined with long American Beauty gloves and a mouth matching in color!

Points For Parents

By EDYTH THOMAS WALLACE

This	Not This
Mother: "I was your age during the last war and I know how difficult these times are for young people of your age."	Mother: "Girls are so different now from when I was young. We never chased after the boys as the girls of today do."

A holier-than-thou attitude disqualifies one as a confidant.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

Girl Plans Give Baby To an Older Sister

Husband Is in Army and Their Parents Are Poor; But Idea Won't Work Because Mother Won't Part at Last Minute

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a girl war-wife. My husband is in the army and will soon be sent overseas. A baby is coming, and I have to give up my job. Neither his people nor mine are able to take me in. My parents are willing to let me stay with them, but I don't feel I should. They are old, both have all they can do to keep a store running, and I would be a burden. I have a little money in the bank and, with what my husband could send, I will be able to keep going if what I have planned works out. That is, when my baby is born I will give it to an older sister who has no children. If I let her adopt the child I can work, save money, and, when my husband returns, we can begin rearing a family. Would this be wise? We talked it over and tried to think of other ways, but cannot. Can you give me a suggestion?

A VERY WORRIED WIFE."

ANSWER: My only suggestion is—put such a foolish idea out of your head. It won't work. Quit worrying over something you cannot change, and summon all your courage to meet it intelligently. Of course, you hate to be a burden on your parents, but you can lighten it by helping them in the store and taking the housework off your mother's shoulders. You will be dependent on them for only a little while, because you will soon be able to go back to your old job, and, anyway, it is part of the miracle of mother and father love that standing by their children when they need it and helping them is never a sacrifice whose price they count. They only thank God they were able to do it.

Don't think of giving your baby to a sister when it is born. You won't be able to do it when the time comes. The first time you feel its little hands on your breast, he will have tangled them in your heartstrings, and you will never have the hardihood to tear them loose. You will never be able to turn him over to your sister, to bear hearing him call her mother, and seeing him grow up apart from you. And it will be a cruel thing to let a sister set her heart on having this child and then be disappointed because you cannot bring yourself to carry out your part of the bargain.

The war will not last forever. It will not be long before you will be able to go back to work and support yourself and baby. Your husband will come back safe in all probability and you will have a long and happy life together. Just keep this thought in mind, that just as nothing is ever quite as black as we hope, nothing is ever as bad as we fear. Our problems that seem insoluble at the distance straighten out as we grapple with them, so keep a brave heart. Do the best you can every day and don't think about tomorrow.

WRONG IDEA

"DEAR DOROTHY DIX: It seems that youth is the curse of being young. Every paper or magazine you pick up ridicules youngsters, denounces their ideals, makes fun of their plans, ambitions, and dreams. Why is it so ridiculous for the young to be in love, to like, love the present and the future, and want to marry? My boy friend and I are 20 and in love. We want to marry. And if it were not for the cold splash of water on our spirits against wartime marriages, we would have done so, but we talked it over and decided that mother knows best, so we try to content ourselves with being engaged. But he is writing and asking me to marry him now, not wait, and I yearn to do just that. Yes, I know he may come back all shot up, but if he did I would marry him regardless. He may not return but why not give him the little bit of happiness he desires? Then, again, he may come back sound and healthy. After all, I know me and others like me that he is fighting. And statistics show that there aren't any more casualties in war-time than in peace. He could break his neck falling down stairs in his own home. What do you think?

• IMPATIENT."

ANSWER: I think anybody who is that anxious to marry should do it, war or no war. And, after all, your case does not come under war risks against which so many voices are raised in warning. You and your fiance are not two adolescent kids so emotionally undeveloped that they do not know their own minds from day to day, and who are incapable of anything but puppy love. When these children get married, just because everybody is doing it, and they feel that they must have a wedding ring, just as they must get the same kind of saddleback shoes or sweaters all the other boys and girls have, they are taking a foolhardy gamble on their futures, because there isn't one chance in a thousand the youngsters won't forget each other and fall in love with some other boy or girl before the war is over.

But youngsters in their twenties are at the marrying age. They know what they want in a husband and wife, and they can have for each other a love which lasts a lifetime, and can survive all the blows of Fate. Were did you get the idea that all the older people are down on youth, that they ridicule and denounce the dreams and ideals of youth, make sport of their plans and ambitions? Nothing could be farther from the truth. Why, the world is run for youth. We older people are its slaves. And it is only because we stand behind, helping, encouraging, and opening the way that you are able to make your dreams come true.

"DEAR MISS DIX: I am certainly glad to hear that the army has taken a stand against women wearing slacks unless they are doing war work, and has cast its vote for feminine frills. There is no excuse for women making themselves look hideous, absurd, and outlandish, as they do in breeches, and if they can't be distinguished as others are them women would discard slacks at once. I have asked several women why they did it, but they said they didn't know. Maybe they put slacks on as an indication that they are going to dominate men and wear the pants. What do you think?

SERGEANT C."

ANSWER: I don't know. I have never been able to even guess why any woman would throw away every feminine charm and attraction, which she does when she puts on slacks. Those skirts are mighty kind to women.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

The only child is more apt than the child in a large family to depend upon himself for companionship. He has to play alone and he develops resources for keeping himself busy and happy. This is all well and good, but it can be carried to extremes. In order to grow into a well-rounded personality one cannot become either a chronic extrovert or introvert. One must be able to play with companions when they are available, or play alone when that must be.

One of my readers bemoans her intelligent boy's indifference to companionship. "He likes to read and he can read for hours at a time. He likes to work with tools and he putters at his work bench and is utterly unconcerned about being alone. He likes to work with me. Perhaps I take advantage of him because he is so willing to help.

"It worries me that he cares so little to play with other children. We live on a quiet street but there are other boys not far away. He is 9 years old and I think he should have boys to play with."

You're right, he should. When a child is of school age, he gets some companionship in school and so some solitary play at home isn't a bad thing. But you can determine whether he prefers being alone to seeking companionship, or whether he shuns the competition and rivalry roughness of boyish games and perfers his own society to the struggles of a group.

This type of child would probably find himself best in an impersonal group of children, from whom he could later select one or more boys who would be inspiring to him as chums.

Encourage membership in some character-building organization. Here he will learn the joys of companionship, discover the advantages of group participation in games, and develop skills made interesting by rivalry and competition. Until he has an insight into these new experiences he cannot possibly know what he is missing.

Obviously the child who can never be satisfied unless he has playmates, or the boy who cares too little for them to make the effort to be agreeable, may need different treatments to help them develop in a more balanced way. Unquestionably they both do need help.

My leaflet, "Groups for Adolescents Which Foster Normal Social Growth," will be of interest to mothers of older children. You may obtain a copy without charge by sending a self-addressed, 4c stamped and opening the way that you are able to make your dreams come true.

Debunker

It is neither legal nor illegal for a bank to loan money. It is impossible for it to do so. It is impossible for anyone anywhere to loan either money or anything else. The reason is that the word "loan" is not a verb. Therefore, it is only correct to say that a bank lends money, or that you lend something to a friend. Likewise a bank has money to lend, but not to loan. The word "loan" is a noun. Thus, it is correct to say that you wish to get a loan, providing some one will lend you what you want. These two words are badly confused in general conversation.

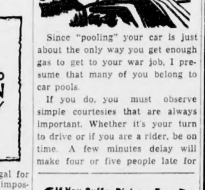
What To Do



Since "pooling" your car is just about the only way you get enough gas to get to your war job, I presume that many of you belong to car pools.

If you do, you must observe simple courtesies that are always important. Whether it's your turn to drive or if you are a rider, be on time. A few minutes delay will make four or five people late for work and in these days time is ammunition.

Don't try to boss the driving job—and don't be too angry when a back seat driver tells you how to drive.

When driving, observe the courtesies of the road; don't hog the centre, don't blow your horn continually, and do observe traffic rules.

Pictured shortly after their wedding, which took place Saturday at Wesley United Church, are Cpl. and Mrs. William Elliott Howard (centre). The bride, who is the former Miss Gladys Eileen Lush, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aubery Lush of Edmonton, and the bridegroom who is a member of the U.S.A.A.F., is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Howard, of Tampa, Florida. Also in the picture are, from left to right: Miss Sheilla Lush, bridesmaid; Miss Pat Kenny, maid-of-honor; the bride and bridegroom; Cpl. William Foxley, U.S.A.A.F., best man; and AC. Arthur Fitzgerald, usher.

Edmonton Girl Weds American

A Canadian-American wedding was held Saturday at the early evening hour of 7 p.m. in Wesley United church, when Miss Gladys Eileen Lush, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Lush, was married to Cpl. William Elliott Howard, of U.S. A.A.F., son of Mr. and Mrs. George Howard, of Tampa, Florida. The Rev. F. T. Scragg united the two in marriage.

The bride was gowned in a floating white dress fashioned with a brocaded satin bodice, high round neckline with ruffle and bishop sleeves of organza also trimmed with ruffling. Her veil of flimsy net was held to her head by a coronet of gladioli buds, and she carried a bouquet of white gladioli and red rose buds.

MAID-OF-HONOR

Miss Sheilla Lush was bridesmaid. She wore a full length gown of rose with taffeta bodice skirt of tulle and turban of tulle Gladioli in shades of yellow and salmon comprised her bouquet.

Best man was Cpl. William Foxley of the USAAF, and usher was Arthur Fitzgerald, R.C.A.F., of St. Catherine's, Ont.

During the signing of the register, Miss Sheilla Lush sang Ave Maria. Vernon Barford was at the piano.

RECEPTION AT HOME

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where Mrs. Lush received wearing a rose cut crepe dress, rose hat and yellow rose buds en corsage. A silver fox fur was arranged around her shoulders.

Mrs. Garfield Lush was also in the receiving line with the wedding party. She chose a summer dress of flower design, and wore white and mauve roses in her hair.

D. K. Knott gave a toast to the bride.

Cpl. and Mrs. Howard are holidaying at Banff. For travelling the bride wore a beige and brown wool jersey dressmaker suit accessories to match.

They will make their home in Edmonton for the time being.

Stagette Club Has Convention

SASKATOON, Sept. 8 (CP)—Miss Marjorie Pickering of Prince Albert was elected national governor for 1943-44 by the convention of Stagette clubs, which met here Sunday and Monday.

The Stagette club which started as a small group of business girls in Saskatoon ten years ago, has now grown to be a national organization with 12 clubs from all parts of the Dominion affiliated. Their main objective is to raise funds for charitable purposes. These special project for the past year bring the Maidstone Street school on England to which they have sent parcels of clothes and treats which are distributed to needy children.

SIX NEW CLUBS

The convention just concluded was the largest and most successful yet held with more than 100 girls in attendance. Six new clubs it was reported had been organized during the past year, namely at Yorkton, Vancouver and Vernon, B.C., Winnipeg, Toronto and Montreal. Monday afternoon Miss Jessie Kerr, outgoing governor, presented charters to the representatives of these clubs.

At Monday's session it was decided that the task of preparing a unified form of initiation would be left to the new executive. Much discussion took place regarding the appointment of a district organizer for the coming year. As the formation of the new clubs had been the result of the work of the organizer, it was decided that one should be appointed for 1943-44. She was to be chosen from the same city from which the national executive would be, although she would not be a member of the executive.

The attendance shield, for the best attendance at club meetings during the past year, was presented to the Regina club.

Futures Break On 'Peg Market

WINNIPEG, Sept. 8—(CP)—Wheat futures closed ⅛ cent a bushel higher to ⅞ cent lower today on the Winnipeg grain exchange. October finished at 1.10⅛.

Influenced by the announcement of the Italian armistice, futures broke as much as ½ cent a bushel during the session. However, declines were checked in later dealings and some losses were recovered.

Shippers and exporters were credited with taking 1,000,000 bushels from the pit. The purchases were believed to be in connection with business with the United States Commodity Credit Corporation.

Prices were strong in early dealings but liquidation set in after the news of the capitulation. Offerings were mostly from American interests.

Cash wheat trade was on a small scale with exporters taking 250,000 bushels of No. 2 Northern.

Demand continued for cash coarse grains and it was reported an estimated 1,250,000 bushels of oats and barley were taken all-rail to eastern feed dealers.

Rye futures broke with wheat but strengthened in later dealings. Local support and a little outside buying kept values firm.

Country wheat marketings yesterday amounted to 1,017,000 bushels compared with 714,000 bushels last year.

Unlocking Adventure

By CHARLES COURTNEY

CHAPTER IX

SOMETIMES I speculated about the treasures that were locked away with the 21,400,654 keys that New Yorkers carried about daily in their pockets and purses. Ten years ago we toted 2,525,455 pounds of metal and, even so, these keys were but a fraction of the whole number that the city used to carry on its daily affairs. There were, in addition, the 12,755,371 keys that we left at home and 6,708,568 that hung on the keyboards of hotels and institutions. Now we lose or leave at home or carry nearly twice that number.

Since we take the trouble to do such thorough locking up, you might conclude that we are locks-conscious and know how to take care of your valuables; on the contrary, keys lull us into a trance-like feeling of security. The front door is locked; we have the key; we feel safe even though the latch on the window can be forced with a penknife and a 10-year-old burglar can pick the cheap lock on the basement door.

Coming to the shop late one morning, I noticed a long brown roadster drawn up at the curb. An oldish, dandy-haired, impatient little man who might have been a banker was pacing back and forth in front of the door.

"Are you the locksmith?" he called to me. "I've been waiting a half hour. Will it take you long to unlock the front door?" Without waiting for an answer, he opened the car door. "Come, jump in."

"But I must get by tools." I protested. He followed me into the shop. "Can you identify yourself?" I asked him. "We don't open house doors unless we're sure the person is the owner." The man stuck his hands in his pockets and, with a sweeping, impatient gesture, spread out on my desk letters, car license, bank book, a tax receipts. "That will do." I assured him as he fished for more. We got into the car and he nervously hitched in and out of traffic like an erratic grasshopper.

We turned into the east eighties and parked before one of a row of well-kept brownstone houses. The owner jumped out and ran up the steps.

"Here it is. Do you think it will take you long?" I followed him to the heavy blue door and looked at the lock.

"It might take a half hour, Mr. Larson." I told him. "You've got one of the finest made. How about the kitchen or basement door?" Without answering, he rang the bell of the house next door and spoke to the maid who led us through the basement into a rear garden. There was a narrow gate in the high wooden fence. The man opened it and motioned me to come through.

On the other side was another garden, a trim square of lawn bordered with flower beds. The man was already rattling the handle of the back door "protected" by a cheap warded lock that I picked in a few seconds.

"What was wrong with the lock on that back door?" he snapped at me.

"Nothing. It was just a cheap one."

"Would it give a burglar any more trouble than it gave you?"

"It might take him five minutes with a piece of celluloid or a skeleton key."

"Then what in blazes is the use of my locking the front door with a fine brass lock—and it ought to be fine, I remember what it cost me—when you can leap over a fence and come in the back way?" He glared at me as if I had sold him the lock.

"Don't ask me," I retorted, laughing at his fierceness. "I should be asking you."

"When I think how much money I've put into it, to have you open the door in less than a minute makes my blood boil. The first thing is to get a new key for the front door. One will do. I have my name on the ring and I'm sure someone will return it. They always do."

"In that case," I suggested, "I'd better change the combination. It's a very simple job. I don't have to remove the lock, just the cylinder. And when you have lost a key and want the combination changed, all you have to do is to loosen the set screw on the side of the lock and take the cylinder to a locksmith. Then no one can use the old key. You can't tell how many people have duplicates of yours by this time."

Mr. Larson looked at me sharply. "In other words, you mean I'm an idiot to label my keys?" Yes, I did think so, but he was only one of thousands who practically invite robberies by this open-handed practice. Lost key cases and rings with names on them are like pennies from heaven to crooks. Even the least enterprising will return the keys, collect a reward and, some time afterward, use duplicates to rob you.

"By the way," he shot at me as we were leaving, "is there any such thing as 'burglarproof'?"

"Practically," I replied. And that is the essence of the matter. Theoretically, no lock is burglarproof because what the ingenuity of one man has invented, the mind of another can solve. But practically, a lock may remain burglarproof for a great many years. There are few safe or door locks that I cannot pick, but I have spent a quarter of a century studying them and not many crooks have taken that trouble.

CURIOUS WORLD

McCoy Health Service

The green peas which are so familiar to everyone are an important member of the family legumin-osae. They were originally a native of Southern Europe and Asia, and have probably been used for food in the Orient for thousands of years. Even in Europe they were cultivated years before the dawn of the Christian Era. These seeds have been found in the lake dwellings of Switzerland showing that they were used as a food during the Bronze age.

The hardy annual is found with two main types; one with a wrinkled seed and one with a smooth round contour. While the plants are usually grown for seeds, there are several varieties with thick green edible pods which may be eaten very much as we use green beans, and which were extensively used in Europe, but have not been well introduced in this country. The vines in the different varieties may vary from 12 inches to 12 feet in length.

The average shelled green pea contains 74.5 per cent water, 7 per cent protein 5 per cent fat, 15 per-cent corbohydrate, 1 per cent ash, containing good amounts of poiassium, sodium, magnesium, phosphorus and sulphur. The dried pea contains a smaller amount of water, containing only 15 per cent. It contains a larger amount of protein, approximately 22.5 per cent, and fat 1.8 per cent, carbohydrates 52 per cent, and mineral matter 2.5 per cent.

The fresh or canned green peas are especially valuable because they contain good amounts of vitamins A, B and C. The canned variety may be used to advantage in regions where other fresh vegetables are not obtainable. The dried peas may be cooked in soups or baked like dried beans. They should be considered a starchy vegetable and not used at the same time with acid foods or with other proteins. The very small green pea may be classed among the non-starchy vegetables, although as the pea becomes more mature it contains a larger amount of starch. Here are a few recipes which you will find interesting.

FRENCH STYLE PEAS

Wash one head of lettuce, thoroughly drain, and chop into small pieces. Add one cup of water and two pounds of peas, weigh before shelling. Cover and simmer for thirty minutes. If canned peas are used, the lettuce should be cooked for fifteen minutes before adding the peas. When cooked, remove from the fire, add butter and seasoning and serve.

BACON WITH PEAS

Shell one pound of peas and cover with boiling water. Add a half teaspoonful of finely chopped mint leaves. Cook for twenty minutes and add three strips of bacon which should first be finely minced and browned in a skillet. Mix and serve immediately.

PEAS WITH VEGETABLES

Clean and dice six new potatoes, one bunch of carrots and two turnips. Cook for twenty minutes and add one can of peas. If fresh peas are used, shell two pounds and add at the beginning. Cook until the carrots are tender. Add butter and serve.

At this time we should eat at least two vegetables a day, and I have a special article for my readers entitled "Vegetable Recipes," which I shall be pleased to send to anyone writing for it.

All questions regarding health and diet will be answered. Large, stamped, self addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 150 words. Address McCoy Health Service, The McCoy Building, 1151 West 6th Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

Labor Progressive Party Preparing For Next Election

VANCOUVER, Sept. 8.—(CP)—Fergus McKean, chairman of the B.C. section of the new Labor Progressive Party, announced last night that "our party intends to run candidates in a considerable number of constituencies throughout the Dominion (in the next federal election) and we are now making preparations for nominating conventions." He added that efforts will be made to attain Labor unity and Labor-Farmer unity in all sections to avoid any split in the Labor-Farmer vote," said McKean "but once Labor Progressive candidates are nominated they will not be withdrawn."

Lethbridge Liquor Store Is Looted

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., Sept. 8.—(CP)—Police here are searching for a large supply of liquor and promise a party in court before a magistrate when they find it. The liquor, valued at $472, was stolen from the Alberta Liquor Control Board store early Monday by thieves who sawed through a steel bar and broke a window at the rear of the building.

Final Sicilian Report Lists 159 Casualties

OTTAWA, Sept. 8. — (CP) — The total of officially-announced Canadian (Active) Army casualties in Sicily reached 1,898 last night with the issuance of what defence department sources said was expected to be the last compiled list of casualties from that campaign.

Several weeks ago defence headquarters announced that Canadian casualties from July 10, the start of the invasion, to Aug. 4 had totalled 3,895. There has been no announcement of the number of casualties occurring after Aug. 4 but they are believed to have been light and are expected to be included in regular lists.

LIGHT IN ITALY

There also has been no indication of when the department will start issuing lists of casualties suffered in the invasion of Italy.Overseas dispatches have indicated that casualties in that campaign thus far have been light.

Last night's list—the 19th list of Sicily casualties and also the army's 360th casualty list of the war, contained 159 names — 32 ranks killed in action; five other ranks died from wounds; six officers wounded, one seriously; 56 other ranks wounded, one dangerously and two seriously; and three officers and 17 other ranks missing.

Listed as seriously wounded is Lieut. Guy Robitaille, infantry officer, whose wife resides at Lauzon, Que. Lieut. Robitaille was born at Lauzon in 1920 and had made his home there until enlisting.

INFANTRY OFFICERS

Two infantry officers are on the wounded list. They are Lieut. Pierre Roland Jacques Gourdeau and Maj. Giles Antoine Turcot, of Quebec. Lieut. Gourdeau was born in Montreal, and his father, Ernest Gourdeau, resides at Quebec. Maj. Turcot, born in Quebec, has as his next-of-kin his father, Dr. Rene Turcot of Quebec.

Among officers listed as wounded is Lieut. Gordon Ammerson Romkey, son of Hon. Gordon Emmerson Romkey, speaker of the Nova Scotia legislature since 1940, and prominent in Nova Scotia political and business affairs. Lieut. Romkey was born at Kentville, N.S., where his home is with his parents.

Two officers of a Saskatchewan regiment are wounded. Capt. David Wilbert Hay of Sussex, N.W.M.P., and Lieut. Charles Anthony B.O. McGill of Vancouver.

Listed as missing are one officer of a central Ontario unit and two of a British Columbia regiment. Lieut. Albert Oswald Newberry, central Ontario regiment, was born in Victoria, where his wife, Mrs. Frances Linea Newberry, lives. Acting Maj. James Walker Blair, British Columbia regiment, is a resident of Vancouver, where his father, Robert Mills Blair, also resides. Acting Capt. Gordon Noel Money, born at Culmington Manor, Shropshire, England, is a resident of Vancouver. His wife, Mrs. Helen Money, lives in that city.

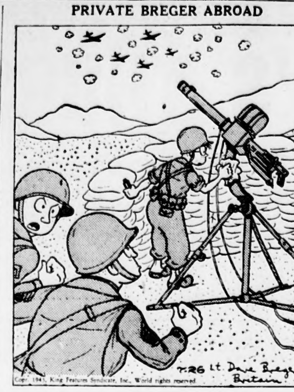
PRIVATE BREGER ABROAD



"He knows they're enemy planes, but there's an inspection by the General scheduled today!"

Coal Hoarding May Result in Investigation

Hoarding of coal by householders may result in a house to house check of coal bins, W. J. Taylor, Calgary, regional representative of the Dominion coal controller, stated Wednesday, as he announced that there is no need for alarm concerning winter coal supplies.

He said that many householders were hoarding coal, with the result that others were unable to get their proper allotment of the available supply.

Persons should not be trying to fill their bins, he said, but should take a supply to carry them over a reasonable period. He added that there is no reason for panic concerning the fall and winter coal supply. There will be sufficient for all if there is no hoarding.

He asked that truckers split their delivery loads, and instead of delivering a full load to one customer that they deliver half loads to two.

Production from the seven strip mines opened up in different parts of Alberta will be on the market by Oct. 1. This production will give considerable relief to the coal situation, especially in the districts adjacent to the projects, he said.

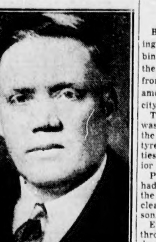
Bout Cancelled

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 8—(AP)—The California Athletic Commission Tuesday cancelled the Henry Armstrong-Slugger White fight scheduled in Hollywood, Sept. 18 and Armstrong said he is through with boxing for keeps.

Vice-President



Carl E. Berg, well known Edmonton labor man, who was elected a vice-president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada at the recent convention held at Quebec. He returned to Edmonton Wednesday morning from Eastern Canada.

Say Mines Unable Pay Wage Increase

Prominent mine operators here say they will be unable to meet the miners' wage increases announced Saturday by the national war labor board "unless federal financial aid is forthcoming."

One of the snags which confront operators in the new order, is that all wage increases should be retroactive to May 15, 1943.

One operator said many mines obviously would be financially unable to pay the new increase ordered, let alone to provide for such pay back to May 16.

Under the federal order the rate for the Edmonton area was increased to $5.57 a day. The miners' union had applied for an increase to $5.78, which is known as the "Crowsnest ate."

Earlier, the board had increased the rate from $4.41 to $5 a day pending an investigation by W. H. Ley of Ottawa, representing the labor board.

Airman to Stand Trial in Death Alberta Soldier

TRURO, N.S., Sept. 8—(CP)—LAC. Colin J. MacDougall of the R.C.A.F., was committed for supreme court trial yesterday on a manslaughter charge arising from the death of Gnr. Gilbert Ragan of High Prairie, Alta., member of the Canadian army. Regan was killed by a truck Aug. 17 while walking along a road in Debert military camp, near here.

Series of Thefts Reported in City

Breaking into an Edmonton curling rink; theft of a quantity of binder twine from a truck, and theft of a suitcase and its contents from a railway baggage room, were among the occurrences reported to city police Tuesday.

The Royal curling rink, 121 street, was broken into sometime during the last three weeks, Jack McIntyre, secretary, informed authorities. Some damage to the interior had been done it was stated.

Police found that several lockers had been forced open by prying off the padlocks. Lockers are usually cleared out at the end of eash season.

Entry apparently had been made through the roof and then climbing down a post. Tracks of youthful feet were found about the place and it was discovered that two fires had been started in the building. Investigations are continuing.

Mike Starko, Waugh, Alta., told police that 250 pounds of binder-twine had been stolen from his truck which he had parked outside a service station last Friday afternoon.

A suitcase, owned by Miss S. Le Rossignal, was stolen from the C.N.R. baggage room about Aug. 8, Inspector J. Gibb, Canadian National investigation department, stated Tuesday.

The suitcase contained two dresses, a blouse, books, shoes, rubbers, and other articles.

Cyclist Injured Crash With Truck

Joe Franko, 17 years old, of 10206 114 street, received a slight cut on one knee, together with a sore toe, at 5:40 p.m. Tuesday, when the bicycle he was riding at 114 street and 104 avenue, crashed into a passing truck. The youth's injuries were received as he jumped from the bicycle just before it struck the truck, and falling onto the pavement.

Lt. Kenneth N. Russell, base ordinance depot, driver of the truck, told police he had seen Franko riding his bicycle between two cars on 104 avenue. As the latter reached the intersection, he pulled out, crashing into the left side of the truck which was travelling in the opposite direction.

Franko said he had pulled out from between the two autos to turn south. Unable to avoid hitting the truck, he said he had jumped from the cycle, which crashed into the heavier vehicle and was damaged.

Taken to the General hospital, the youth was found to have received slight injuries to the knee and toe. No blame was to be attached to the truck operator, it was learned.

Before the Magistrate

Art Lavoie, found guilty of assaulting Ernest Jacobi, was fined $5 and costs or seven days imprisonment, when he appeared before Magistrate A. I. Millar, K.C., in city police court Wednesday morning.

The charge arose after a set-to by the accused and the complainant, about 11 p.m. Aug. 18. Lavoie had come to the store operated by Jacobi at which time Lavoie had said his wife had told him to do something about the complainant's troubling her.

There had been words. Lavoie had been asked to leave the store, and Jacobi had followed his request up by pushing the other outside.

Defence counsel asked if the complainant wasn't trying to get his client to vacate the premises they lived in jointly. The plaintiff admitted that his case had been heard a week ago, at which time his application had been withdrawn. He was then reminded that he had immediately served another notice on the accused.

Accused said he had learned from his wife that the plaintiff had bothered her, and she had asked him to do something about it. Accused had gone to the store and told both the complainant and his wife to stop arguing with Mrs. Lavoie. He had then waited outside for the police.

Asked how he knew the police were coming, the accused replied that the complainant was "pretty sore" and he figured he was going to call the police.

The magistrate thought it was more than just a trivial matter, one which could develop into large proportions.

Anthony E. Quinton, charged with theft of drugs, pleaded not guilty, and had his case adjuorned to Sept. 16.

The accused was charged with stealing a quantity of morphine from a physician, the value of which was said to be less than $25. Bail was set at $1,000.

Case of Harry Brent, charged with the theft of an auto and also with operating an auto without the owner's consent, was again remanded, until Friday of this week. The accused acknowledged a juvenile record with charges of breaking and entering, theft, and operating an auto without the owner's consent. He acknowledged, also, a breach of the Motor Vehicle Act earlier this year.

Asked if he had anything to say, the prisoner stated that he had tried to join the navy but had been turned down. Further asked what he had been doing since March last, he stated that he had been working to repay his sister and brother some money he owed them.

Mr. Millar did not think that the sister or brother would have insisted on being paid back if the accused had been anxious to join the services. He was not very hopeful for him, he added, as the case was remanded.

Herbert Ault pleaded guilty to the charge of illegal possession of liquor, acknowledged convictions in 1941 for possession of stolen property; in 1939 for uttering forged documents and in 1938, at Saskatoon, for false pretenses. He was assessed $25 and costs or 35 days. The liquor was confiscated.

See Tram Total Current Season Of 30,000,000

The estimated 30,000,000 passenger traffic on the Edmonton street railway system seemed assured when it was disclosed Wednesday by Thomas Ferrier, street railway superintendent, that 19,987,904 passengers had been carried during the eight months ended Aug. 31.

The patronage on the system for the eight months of 1942 was 13,298,943, giving an increase this year of 6,688,961, or the equivalent of 52 per cent.

Traffic during August, 1943, totalled 2,407,775 compared with 1,613,056 for the same month last year, an increase of 794,719.

Street railway officials stated Wednesday that the 30,000,000 passenger estimate would be substantially exceeded as the four busiest months of the year are still ahead of the system.

MORE TRAFFIC

Plans are now being made to handle the increase of traffic expected during the fall and winter months, and street cars are being converted to permit the operation of two conductors. This work is proceeding as rapidly as possible at the street car barns, and it is expected that the first two-conductor cars will be placed in service early in October.

Consideration is being given to the employment of women conductors on the street cars, and applications have been received by the commissioners from many women seeking this work. A decision on when the women will start work is expected shortly.

Curtin Enlarges On Suggestions For New Council

SYDNEY, Australia, Sept. 8—(CP)—Prime Minister Curtin has elaborated on his suggestion that some sort of permanent imperial consultative body be formed for the management of the common economic and political interests of Britain and the Dominions. He now has made it plain that he contemplates a council with a structure similar to that of the present Pacific war council, on which Britain and the Dominions could consult regularly.

Salute to the Allies!

Capitulation of Italy Brings Final Victory a Step Nearer!

EATON'S joins in saluting the Allied forces on the unconditional surrender of Italy!

First Africa, then Sicily, now Italy. The United Nations are fearlessly advancing, their enemies retreating.

It is through the valiant efforts and spirit of our own Canadian boys, the British and our Allies the Americans that this latest amazing coup, the collapse and unconditional surrender of Italy has been accomplished.

Germany three times has been forced to look for a back door out. But even though the blue skies of success are shining upon us we must not relax our vigilance for one moment—not until the "Beast of Berlin" is forced right into his own Berlin backyard!
